Washington Gossip.

Washington, May 4.—(Special.)—Though Washington has been deserted by congressrecently on account of the absence of sident and cabinet, since their return the statesmen have commenced dropping in, and a quorum may be present before the end of the week. Nearly all the Tennesseeans, abamians and North Carolinians are here. esident up to date, but a rush is to be upon him now. Alabama's innings made upon will probably come first, the delegation from that state being very earnest in an effort to have the present republican office holders

North Carolina, are both here urging changes in that state and it is probable North Carolina's turn will come after Ala-Blount and the Hawaiian Mission.

There has been much talk recently of Mr. Blount's being appointed minister to Hawaii to succeed Minister Stevens. A friend of the Georgian, in talking with me today, however, says that Mr. Blount would not accept such an appointment. "There are many reasons why Mr. Blount would not accept such an appointment," said he. "In the first place, Mr. unt now occupies a much higher post-under the government. His position special agent of the state department, and will last throughout the term of the present administration. The salary of the minister to Hawaii is only $7,500, while Mr. Blount's is $8,000, and all his expenses are paid by the government. When he leaves Hawaii he may be sent to Europe. But, wherever he goes, he occupies a posion of great prominence."

"Will Mr. Blount be a candidate for overnor of Georgia?" I asked. That I do not know. He is ambitious owever, to be governor at some time, and then to be sent to the senate. After twenty years in congress, to be governor and then be sent to the senate would be a graceful rounding off of his career."

These Boys Need Luck. There was a lively scramble for a rabbit foot in the white house grounds this morn-

The luck attached to the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit killed in the dark of the moon is proverbial, but undoubtedly it would be eclipsed by the luck inherent in a rabbit born and bred in the very shadow of the white house and in the exp shadow of the white house and in the at-mosphere of Grover Cleveland's luck. At least this appeared to be the views of a party of office seekers who went to call on the president this morning. They were going up the walk from the east gate and when just abreast of a gardener, who was mowing the lawn, a young rabbit darted from beneath a boxwood bush and loped leisurely across the lawn. With one acd the office seekers dropped canes and brellas and gave chase. They wanted and foot of a white house rabbit. When chase was at its height a tall, portly tleman from Alabama, whose figure e it difficult for him to participate in chase, entered the grounds in a state

"I'd willingly have given $10 for that rabbit's left hind foot," exclaimed he regretfully. "To have caught him right here in the white house grounds would have been the test luck in the world. In this condition, the presient must have been relieved to find that here is one district where the republican incumbents could be arraigned. This is Mr. Outhwaite's district in Ohio. A statement prepared from the records of the postoffice department shows that during the first two months of the present administration, the total number of fourthclass postmasters appointed was 3,894 as against 5,104 made during the first two months of Mr. Harrison's administration. The number of appointments made during the last two months to fill vacancies caused by resignations and deaths was 2,685 as against 1,600 against 1,608 made during the correspond-ing period of the last administration. The number of removals made during the last two months is shown to be only 1,209, while the number of removals made during the first two months of Mr. Harrison's administration reached 3,496. The excess of appointments four years ago was, there-fore, 1,270 and the excess of removals 2,087, while the number of appointments made on account of resignations and death was 1,077 more than four years ago.

Washington, May 4.—Secretary Gresnam reathrmed today his statement of yesterday that he had sent two telegrams to the governors of the western states asking them to take precaution against violence to Chinese. He aid not care to state how many and what governors had been asked to take action, but said that the text of the dispatch over his signature given out for publication by Governor Pennoyer, of Oregon, was correct. The secretary declined to comment on the answer sent him by Governor Pennoyer.

precautionary measures. I do not believe there is any prospect of trouble, but the dispatches were sent, nevertheless, to allay apprehension."

The serious trouble in which the United Sates became involved in the conflict between state laws and treaty stipulations over the killing of the Italians in New Orleans and also the killing of several Chinese and wounding of many others at Rock Creek, Wyo, for which the United States made reparation, induced the administration to take every precaution to avert violence towards Chinese citizens over the enforcement of the exclusion law. Foreign governments have already required explanations from the United States with reference to the paramount authority of a state in regard to crimes committed within its border in seven cases where the erimes were not in violation of the treaty stipulations. The state department decided to give the Chinese government, in the event of trouble the assurance that every precaution had been taken for the protection of Chinese subjects, so far as the advice and authority of the general government could do.

It will be remembered that President Harrison strongly recommended to congress to pass a law giving the United States courts jurisdiction over offenses against treaty stipulations committed in the states, but congress declined to adopt the recommendation.

The consul general says that, according to the newspapers, the bands number about one hundred persons, while rumor gives their number all the way from 500 to 700 men. This letter was the first official information received by the state department with regard to the Cuban trouble.

Secretary Gresham said this morning that no telegrams had come to him today, and that he had not been advised of the reported surrender of the insurgent band as given in previous dispatches. The Spanish legation here keeps a close watch upon all filibustering movements, and never fails to give proper warning to the state department when anything more seriously is actually in progress than Cuban junta pronunciamentoes, or specches of Senor Murtiners. ment when anything more seriously is actually in progress than Cuban junta pronunciamentoes, or speeches of Senor Marti, No complaint has been made to the state department for many months by the Spanish legation of contemplated violations of the neutrality law in the United States. Atchison, Kan., May 4.-Ex-Senator Ingalls went Tuesday, attired in his farming costume, into the country south of town to look after some property. Being in need of some information he dropped into a school-house to question the teacher.

A report had been in circulation that there was a crazy man wandering about the vi-cinity, and Miss St. Clair, the teacher, tak-ing the odd-looking visitor for the insane person, became frightened and ran from the building, followed by the whole school. Discovering her mistake the teacher re-turned to the schoolhouse, but the distin-guished visitor had disappeared.

Assignment of a University. Assignment of a University.

Lebanon, O., May 4.—The National Normal university has make an assignment to George H. Burr. The liabilities are from $75,000 to $105,000, and the assets nominally about the same, but it is said that there will be little left for unsecured creditors, as the bonded indebtedness is secured by mortgages on real estate. The institution is an old one and the first of its kind in the United States. It is now full of pupils. The failure comes from the maturing of old obligations incurred when new buildings were erected.

IN THE NOTED DENMARK CASE Solicitor Jervey Made a Sensational Speech Against the Governor,

To Take Charge of the Prosecution of the Lynchers - Will He Make His Threat Good and Indict the Governor?

Columbia, S. C., May 4 .- (Special.)-The ftermath of the Denmark lynching grows interesting. Today's developments are racy and those of the near future will probably

From the published utterances of Government ernor Tillman on the subject the general impression has been that he would take no action against the lynchers, but he took the preliminary steps today and in a way that is unexpected, bold and start-

At the mass meeting of citizens in this county recently to express themselves on Governor Tillman's course in sending the negro Peterson before the lynchers, Solicitor Jervey, of Charleston, happened to be present and on being called upon t speak, made use of these remarks: "If were the solicitor in Barnwell county I should indict every man who took part in that murder and I should name as accessory before the act B. "I desire to call your attetnion officially to the recent lynching at Denmark in con-nection with the following statement: So far no warrants have been sworn out by any one against any person supposed to be connected with the affair and the proceedings and verdict of the jury of inquest gave no information which the prosecution can be begun. Under these circumstances, if the case is to receive that investigation which its gravity seems to require, it becomes the duty of the executive officer to institute proceedings in the premises. Inasmuch as a violation of law was committed in a community in which I have relatives and connections, it is not impossible that some of them were implicated, especially when it is stated that the entire community was engaged in the enterprise. Such being the case, any effort on my part to bring the perpetrators to justice would be embarras-sing to me, and probably lay me open to the charge of partiality and insincerity. 1 would, therefore, respectfully request that your excellency would charge the solicitor of one of the adjoining circuits to take charge of the case, and would suggest Solicitor Jervey, whose circuit adjoins this county, and who probably better understands the situation, and could give the matter satisfactory attention."

Herein comes the interesting part of to Solicitor Jervey, in which he notifies him of Bellinger's letter, and says: "I therefore direct you to proceed to Denmark at your earliest convenience for the purpose of thoroughly investigating the outbreak and taking the necessary steps to vindicate the law and punish the lynch-

A jeweler was called to appraise the find and said that the lot, which was of the first quality, and in his opinion, of foreign manufacture, was worth about $80,000. It is thought that the goods have been smuggled into this country and that the man and woman are the agents of some persons extensively engaged in smuggling. Both Leroux and the woman were locked up. The police are still prosecuting their investigation and expect to make further arrests.

NEARLY A PANIC

He Startles the State with a Sensational | On Wall Street Yesterday Among the Brokers.

> FOUR LARGE FAILURES ANNOUNCED. And for a Time There Was Great Excitement,

AND SOME VERY BAD BREAKS IN STOCKS.

The Clearing House System Kept Many Others from Going to the Wall.
Talks With Brokers.

New York, May 4.-Wall street was startled soon after the opening by the failure of Henry Allen & Co., because of its ramifica-tions in Chicago and other western cities, has commanded a large patronage and exerted important influence on 'change. Almost simultaneously with this announcement came the failure of B. L. Smythe & Co., and later the suspension of Schuyler Walden was made known from the rostrum of the exchange.

All three concerns owe their misfortune to the remarkable decline in National Cordage stocks, of which they were heavily long for customers, who failed to respond to the calls for additional margins.

Throughout the day there were rumors that other failures were impending, and bro-kers and speculators were kept in a state of trepidation and excitement by the fear of further calamities. Liquidations were on a wholesate scale and intense excitement prevailed as various firms sold out their customers and a perfect avalanche of stocks came upon the market. came upon the market.

The drop in prices was unusual, even for times of panic, and denoted the serious straits in which speculators find themselves. The fact that London and Paris bought heavily, and that investors here with ample means also took stocks freely, failed to stem the downward current. Two or three sharp rallies occurred, but the rise only served to increase the desire to get out.

Bad Breaks in Stocks.

Just previous to the close there was a particularly bad break in General Electric, Cordage, Sugar and Manhattan, and the manner in which these stocks were thrown overboard gave rise to rumors that other manner in which these stocks were thrown overboard gave rise to rumors that other firms would suspend tomorrow. Shrewd investors, hower, continued to buy, and the belief obtains that the panic is in fact approaching the culminating point. The trading reached 741,972 shares, the largest total for a very long time. Over 122,000 of unlisted stocks changed bands. National Cordage figured for 132,810, Sugar for 96,070, St. Paul for 62,500, Chicago Gas for 44,534, Burlington and Quincy for 62,500 and Atchison for 27,774 shares.

The declines were: 18 1-4 in National Cordage, 18 in the preferred, 7 3-8 in sugar, 9 1-4 in the preferred; 4 in American Cotton Oil; 5 1-2 in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, 5 in Burlington and Quincy, 3 in St. Paul, 5 in Colorado fuel, 31-4 in Evansville and Terre Haute, 9 in General Electric, 4 in Lake Shore and Western preferred, 10 in Manhattan, 3 in Missouri Pacific, 31-4 in Jersey Central, 4 in Oregon Navigation, 3 1-2 in Pullman Palance Car. 5 in Richmond Terminal preferred, 4 1-2 in United States Rubber preferred, 5 1-2 in Wheeling and Lake Erie.

A Statement Made. Wheeling and Lake Erie

A Statement Made. The market closed feverish and unsettled. Late this afternoon an informal statement was made in regard to the condition of affairs of the National Cordage Company. President Waterbury was not in his office at Today Governor Tillman wrote a letter | the time, but the statement was made by an other of the company after the consultacounsel for the Cordage trust. The state-ment was to the effect that the National ment was to the effect that the National Cordage Company had not applied for a receiver and was fully able to pay all dividends for the ensuing year. The sudden decline in the price of Cordage stock is attributed by the officers of the trust to the fact that at this season a great deal of money goes out of the city to outside investors in the shape of dividends, and it takes some time for it to get back to the city. Again, there has been some discrimination by the banks against Cordage paper, and this, together with the recent additional issue of $2,000,000 additional stock, has had the effect of and this, together with the recent additional issue of $2,000,000 additional stock, has had the effect of forcing prices down. The additional stock was issued, it is said, in order to liquidate a lot of outstanding paper of the trust.

Speaking of yesterday's and this morning's failures and the operation of the stock exchange clearing house, a governor of the stock exchange said:

exchange clearing house, a governor of the stock exchange said:

"If it had not been for the existence of the clearing house, other failures could not have been well avoided. Now they are not likely. Under the clearing house system only the balances have to be settled. Any balance not settled is divided up among those having dealings with the house, which fails to settle, each one paying its share and the loss is so distributed that it is not felt. The system works like a charm. Without is each firm would have to settle up its own account and temporary embarrassment, or perhaps failure would thus inevitably, in some cases, be brought about. The clearing house system prevents that by confining failures to the firm actually embarrassed by their own dealings."

On the consolidated exchange and petroleum exchange today there seemed to be little emprepared.

On the consolidated exchange and petro-leum exchange today there seemed to be little apprehension. The traders there had been dumping all the long accounts in Industrials for a week past, and now that the crash for a week past, and now that the crash had come, everybody was safe, the shorts covering completely at a profit. There was a fair trade in the Industrials, but the attention was directed chiefly today to the railroad securities and under an attack by the bears to break the markets, the whole list became quite strong. The failure to meet clearing house balances was the only embarrassment, and only three meet clearing house balances was the only embarrassment, and only three brokers were involved in a very small way. They were C. H. Gilsom, one of the most conservative traders on the floor, W. F. Beardsley and T. F. Bradley. Each. of the delinquents had twenty-four hours in which to meet his accounts. Railway and miscellaneous bonds were very weak. The sales were $1.616.000.

The failure of A. H. King & Co. was the cause of some surprise in commercial circles yesterday, owing partly to the fact that under one parts of the care that yesterday, owing partly to the fact that under one name or another, the firm has done business for forty years in this city. Harry Cohen, the cashier, says that the liabilities of the firm were now definitely known to be $250,000, and he thought the assets would cover the liabilities. "The business." he said, "will be continued in a very few days, on Saturday if possible." He attributed the failure to the backward season. "Our creditors, I think," he said, "understand the situation, and they have been very kind to us, many of them offering to loan us money to help tide over the difficulty."

After the inventory of the stock of A. H. King & Co.'s stores has been taken a settlement will be made without litigation. There are no preferred creditors.

What the Post Says.

The Post says: Though it is quite impossible to predict with certainty the investment market's future, there was reason to think today that Wall street had already seen the worst. None of the wild rumors circulated yesterday about the banks have received a moment's confirmation. The action of the banks today was generally marked by firmness, confidence and resolution. Merchants have met the monetary shock with an ease of mind clearly born of a sound financial status. London houses, it will be noticed, bought the railroad stocks promptly at this morning's opening and there is reason to believe that their purchases represented this time something more than New York orders. In the conservative broker houses of the street there were heard from emphatically today capitalists who rarely show themselves in Wall street; bargain houses, whose presence means assurance, and whose absence in such a time as this are the worst of all bad omens.

The bond market's intrinsic strength was demonstrated throughout the day in a very remarkable degree. It is, however, by no means to be assumed that the recovery, if it is actually in progress, will be sharp and long continued. An overturn like this is not forgotten in a day. The grave question remains, moreover, that Wall street is always first to bend before a financial storm it has felt approaching for the commercial world at large. What the Post Says.

A LESSON IN NATURAL HISTORY

By Mr. Coudert Before the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration.

Paris, May 4.—Mr. F. R. Coudert continued his argument in behalf of the United States today before the Behring sea arbitration. Mr. Coudert analyzed the joint report of the commissioners appointed by Great Britain and the United States to ascertain the facts in relating to scall life in Great Britain and the United States to ascertain the facts in relation to seal life in Behring sea and the measures necessary for its proper protection and prevention. Mr. Coudert urged that the pelagic sealers in killing a gravid female, destroyed three animals and then frequently did not obtain a skin as the result of this slaughter. The creatures that the sealers kill often sink in the sea and thus escape them. Mr. Coudert humorously described the refusal of the female seals to suckle pups that had been orphaned through the slaughter of their mothers by the pelagic sealers, and caused con-male seals to suckle pups that had been or phaned through the slaughter of their mothers by the pelagic sealers, and caused considerable merriment among the listeners.

There was a frequent exchange of repartee between Baron deCourcel, president of the tribunal, and Mr. Coudert.

Mr. Coudert read affidavits in support of these assertions. He had read up on the natural history of the seal, replying with readiness to a series of questions addressed to him by the aembers of the tribunal of arbitration. It response to a question by Baron de Courcel, Mr. Coudert said that Copper Island seals caught by the pelagic sealers came to the market as having been caught in Japan.

The British counsel exclaimed in chorus: "That is quite wrong." Mr. Coudert answered, "We have ample proof that it is true. We have proof also that three fourths of the total number of skins sold are those of females."

Mr. Coudert read evidence in support of his statement.

Lord Hannen, one of the British arbitrators, asked: "During the preparation of the skins is anybody's attention called to the distinction between female and male skins?"

Mr. Coudert continued to read affidavits in support of his statements, whereupon skins?"

Mr. Coudert continued to read affidavits in support of his statements, whereupon the president, Baron de Courcel, said: "Lord Hannen's question is unanswered. I suppose nobody could answer it."
Alr. Coudert: "If nobody can, then I cannot; but I should not like to admit by silence my inability to answer the question."

Mr. Coudert went on to show the sex of the seals naturally presented itself to those engaged in preparing the skins. Mr. Coudert fuoted the French furrier, Revillon, as saying that the sex could not be distinguished from the skins, but he said he would produce overwhelming proof to the contrary.

Recurring to the question of the territorial limits within which the seals were caught, Mr. Coudert contrasted the statements of a British sealing captain to the effect that the animals were never found ten miles from land with the evidence of another British witness to the effect that

TIES ON THE TRACK.

Attempt to Wreck a Train on the Lake Erie and Western.

Lima, O., May 4.-An attempt was made last night to wreck the westbound express on the Lake Erie and Western road, due at Lima at 9:45 o'clock p. m. A heavy ipment of money was on the train, and that was what the wreckers were after. The plot was arranged about three-quar ters of a mile west of Paxton, a desolate piece of territory. At the foot of a grade, near the curve, a pile of ties, spiked together, was placed across the track. The robbers lay in ambush. The express train was behind time, and the right of way was given to a second-class passenger train. This train came against the obstruction, and the engine and two coaches were ditched. No one was injured, but great excitement prevailed.

A heavy freight train was following the accommodation closely. The flagman started back, and had proceeded about one hundred feet when he was suddenly confronted by the highwaymen with revolvers fronted by the highwaymen with revolvers, and compelled to return to the wreck. The robbers thought it was his intention to flag the express, which they had planned to rob. The brakeman notified the train crew, who started in a body and were not molested. After stopping the freight, the alarm was sent over the wires to both Paxton and Peoria. Great excitement prevailed at both places, and a posse was promptly organized for the purpose of scouring the surrounding country in search of the fugitives.

ONE HUNDRED AT THE COURTHOUSE.

Demanding the Release on Bail of Some of Their Crowd.

THE JUDGE TACKLES THE GANG.

Succeeds in Raising a Posse, and Repulses Them-The Militia Called Out.
Trouble Is Expected.

Jackson, Miss., May 4 .- (Special.)-From gentleman who was present at the courthouse at Brookhaven today it is learned that a railroad case was being tried, when the judge looked out and saw a mob of 100 white caps, armed with guns and pistols, appear and surround the courthouse.

Judge Chrisman left the room and went down to talk with them.

The leader, pistol in hand, confronted him, When the judge ordered him arrested a shotgun was leveled on him and the white caps exclaimed: "Die, sir!"

The judge answered: "I know you, sir; you are a criminal." Guns and pistols were presented and it looked as if the brave judge would be riddled. Judge Chrisman fearlessly denounced them and ordered their arrest.

In the meantime the remainder of the crowd who had remained in th ecourthouse began coming out but could not get through the line formed by the white caps.

Finally Judge Chrisman broke through the line, rushed over to the town, which is a quarter of a mile from the courthouse, rang the fire bell, formed a posse of twentyfive armed citizens and came back.

The white caps retired upon their appearance. They stopped in the woods two miles from town and an attack is apprehended tonight, but the governor is there with a military company and if they come will give them a warm reception.

The indicted white caps are in jail and will remain unless the officers are overpowered, whoch now seems impossible. The complaint of the white caps is that there was no warrant in law for denying their indicted comrades bail. They are indicted for arson, which is not bailable in this state, when the building fired is inhabited by human beings. This afternoon a military company of seventy-five men was organized, and Sheriff McNair swore in forty deputies out of the company and armed them with the rifles to do duty during this term of court and longer, if required. Doubtless, the grand jury will find indictments against the leaders. Judge Chrisman has the support of the best element of the country, and will enforce the law to the utmost extent. The good citizens of the county are aroused, and publicly denounce the action of the sympathizers of the prisoners. Everything is quiet tonight, and we do not fear any more trouble. The prisoners will be tried next Monday, and on that day Governor Stone wi citizens of the county. Public notice has been sent out to that effect.

HOW THE WATER CAME DOWN

The Valley from the Broken Lewiston Reservoir. Toledo, May 4.-The Blade corresponds ent at Lewiston reservoir gives additional details of the break. The Great Mami river has its source in Lewiston reservoir, and begins at the wasteway, which broke. The first break took away 100 feet of the The first break fook away 100 feet of the wasteway directly in front of a covered bridge 150 feet long, which spanned the Miami river only about seventy-five feet from the reservoir. This bridge was supported by heavy piling driven into the ground eighteen feet. This mighty force of water, covering over 17,000 acres and making the second largest (the St. Marys being the largest) artificial body of water in the world, struck the bridge. These pilings were as matches, and the heavy wooden bridge, weighing tons, was hurled down stream and lodged upright 200 feet from its original place. The continual rush of water tore away another fifty feet, and then only a short time elapsed until the entire country for three miles south of the reservoir was inundated, and the distance across the water east and west in three miles. enapsed until the entire country for three miles south of the reservoir was inundated, and the distance across the water east and west is three miles. Colonel Perkins, chief engineer; Colonel Bachtch, assistant engineer; John O'Connor, superintendent of division, and Hon. Frank McCullough, members of the state board of public works, are on the scene and doing everything that can be done. Colonel Perkins places a rough estimate of the damage at $150,000. The loss to Logan county in pikes being washed out, and the displacement of the bridge near the reservoir will amount to $120,000. Farmers along the river will not lose much but their fences and crops. The water is still spreading over the country around Lewiston. As soon as the level is reached, then the river will begin to raise rapidly. The warning has been ample, and no great loss of life of man expenses the country of the country of the country around results.

New York, May 4.—Paderewski has broken down, it is said, under the strain which he has been subject to of late and will probably be unable to appear at the benefit for the actors' fund at Palmer's theater tomorrow afternoon. He came to New York tonight and went at once to the Windsor hotel, where he shut himself up in his apartments and absolutely refused to see any one. He, however, sent out this statement about playing at the benefit:

"I will shoot myself before I'll play tomorrow. Tell them to take all the money I've got but I won't play."

The performer was in a state bordering on nervous hysteria, and while he talked coherently, it was evident that great excitement was telling on his mental faculties in another degree. Will Play This Atterno

About Their Actions as Members of Tha Body, and All Athens Is Still Discussing That Verdict.

Athens, Ga., May 4.—(Special.)—The Beusse-Briggs verdict is still the talk on the streets and in the newspapers. Today The Augusta Chronicle reports that an indignation meeting will be held, and says its authority is from solid citizens who mean business. This is probably a mistake, but it is true that instead of interest waning and talk ceasing it is on the increase. Sensational statements have been going the rounds all day purporting to have come from members of the jury before whom the case was tried, and this afternoon The Constitution representative rode all over the county to invertigate the matter. The jurors were found and plain questions put to them in regard to the statements, and in all the cases of Hill Lester and Spinks the answers were just as plain and prompt Mr. J. A. Lester, a member of the jury "In reply to your request as a member of the jury in the Beusse-Briggs case, I will state that the verdict handed to the court, was not mine, that is, it was not accordwith my sense of justice. I agreed to the verdict on this condition, that if I could get out of the room without being polled, lnasmuch as I was alone, at that time in my stand, I would go, but if I was polled I state that I could not conembers of the jury that I never would by that the defendants were not say that the defendants were not guilty. I have been asked about the passing in and out of notes while the jury was in session. There were a number of notes passed in and out of the jury room through the sheriff and bailiff. I don't know from whom these notes were received nor what they contained. Mr. Hazleton and Mr. Epps especially were sending out and receiving notes all the Sunday morning Mr. Epps received a lot of strawberries, to which the members of the jury were treated. About the same time the strawberries came in, Mr. Hazleton received a lot of bed clothes. This was about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. On one morning during the trial some of the jurors were talking; Mr. Reynolds asked me who that was talking, and I replied that it was Hazleton and Epps. Reynolds told Bailiff Tuck to go and stop the talking, because the bailiff thought they were talking about the case."

The Constitution representative drove to the home of Juryman James E. Spinks, in Puryear's district, today and asked him for an interview on the case. He promptly dictated the following:

"Notwithstanding the fact that I was a member of that jury, I think that the verdict was a shame and a disgrace. This may sound strange from a member of the jury, but I can easily explain my part in it. I was taken ill in the jury room and begged that the sheriff go to the judge and have me released, when I found a verdict could not be reached, but was told I could not get out of there until something was done. I repeatedly tried to get information of my physical condition to the judge, but could not as the reply to my requests was in variably 'You can't get out of there until you reach a verdict.' Finally, exhausted suffering from pain in my back intensely. I told the other members of the jury that I would sign anything to get out of there, and that I would sign the acquittal verdict, but that I thought the defendants as guilty as men ever were on earth. I signed that verdict in defense of my own life. I am still sick. In regard to the notes passing in and out of the jury room, that is a fact. Hazleton, Epps and Rhodes were sending out and receiving notes constantly through the sheriff and bailiff. I don't know who they were from or what were in them, whether they were open or sealed. The first I would see of the recipients were reading them. I have served on juries several times, and this was the blackest affair I ever saw. In the jury room, one of the main things urged by those who favored acquittal was the fact that the state had refused to put up Robertson, the witness who went be fore the grand jury. I do not know in what manner the jury became in possession of this and other facts that transpired while the jury was out of the courtroom By order of the judge one night, we wen down to the sheriff's house. The defendwere sitting out on the jail steps, with the outside gate open, leaving the prisoners in full view and in speaking distance of the jury. I don't know that any conversation or even a word took place, but this looked strange to a man from the country. People were thronging in and out, calling on the prisoners. I sent out for a bottle of medicine, and the judge and all the lawyers had to see it before I got it, but not so with the letters. The jury first stood five for conviction and seven fo acquittal, but it required only a short time to change them all to the acquittal side except Lester and myself. Lester told Hazleton while in the jury room that he Hazleton, was not fit to serve on a jury, which came near resulting in a difficulty. These are the facts.'

Juror Hill heard Lester's interview read and said he wanted to concur in all the facts except the discussion of the case be tween members of the jury during the course of the trial. This he did not hear. Hill further said that he was illiterate; could not read or write, and that Epps wrote his ballots, and he did not know whether they read guilty or not guilty, as he did not show them to any one else. Mr. D. P. Hazleton was elected foreman immediately on entering the room, on motion of Epps.

SEVERAL CONVICTS BADLY WOUNDED

And One of Them, an Atlanta Negro, May Die, While Two of the Guards Were Hurt-A Desperate Attempt.

Cole City, Ga., May 4.-(Special.)-Ten of the most desperate convicts in the Cole City camp made a daring attempt to escape this morning, and, but for the bravery and coolness of the guards, would, in all probability, have succeeded. The gang was led by a desperate negro named Johnson, who was sent up from Fulton county for a long term for burglary, and who was severely, if not mortally, wounded in the fight. In some way, the convicts secured some old gaspipe which they converted into guns by plugging up one end securely. A fuse was substituted for a trigger, and the guns were loaded with/ anything that the guns were loaded with/anything that was calculated to kill. This' morning, when the convicts were being moved to the works, the ten who had the dangerous weapons suddenly made a break, and, when called upon to half, fired. The break was sudden and unexpected, and, but for the coolness and bravery of the guards, weuld have been successful. The guards returned the fire, and, after several shots, the convicts were subdued. In the fight Johnson and four or five other convicts were wounded, and it is thought Johnson's wounds will result in his death. concludes as follows:
This inquiry into the cause by the examination of witnesses and otherwise, leaves no doubt in my mind as to my official duty. I have endeavored to give to the application for elemency that impartial and conscientious study which the fate of any human life demands and which the popular interest in this case calls for. But so far as the court and jury could determine, Harris was guilty of a heinous crime, revolting in its conception and in the depravity of its perpetrator, and no satisfactory considerations have been presented to the executive to justify his intervention in the execution of the sentence. The application for elemency is therefore denied. Harris Informed of His Fate.

"I have seen a great many men in desperate positions, but never before have I seen a man so cool under like circumstances."

Abe Hummel, Lawyer Howe's partner, received the news first from a reporter. He said an application would be made for a respite of about thirty days. "Harris's nerves have been at a high tension since he went to Sing Sing," said Mr. Hummel, "and he should be given time to prepare for death. We are all surprised by the governor's decision, as Mr. Howe had confidently expected his sentence would be commuted. Further than that, I believe there is nothing to say."

The Women Cried.

President Mrs. Potter Palmer surprised the board of lady managers this morning by rising as soon as the meeting was called to order and said she would have to resign if the ladies would not quit quarreling and behave in a more dignified manner. The meeting was an absorbingly interesting one, and many of the ladies were in tears before it was over. Some ladies even cried aloud, and speeches in support of the president were made in broken voices, accompanied by expressions of heartfelt sympathy for Mrs. Palmer, when she declared that she was utterly discouraged with the action of certain members of the board. The women vied with each other, and finally a resolution supporting the president and thanking her for the noble work she had done was unanimously passed. The Detectives Are Looking for C. C Crane.

CASE OF FORGERY AGAINST HIM. Many Rumors of Large Forgeries by Him,

But They're Only in the Air Up to This Time. Charles C. Crane, a stylish young real estate speculator, is being looked for by Chief of Detectives Wright and his men, and his absence from his usual haunts gives color to the many rumors that are being circulated concerning many alleged swindling transactions of his, by which he is reported to have pocketed a big pile of shekels that belonged to other people. Chief Wright, however, is not basing his search upon the rumors he has heard, but is going upon the complaint made to him by Dr. F. W. Styles, the well known physician, who says he is a victim of the oung real estate man to the extent of just This complaint was made to Chief $650. Wright last night, and he immediately placed his men on the trail of the young man.

Crane is widely known in Atlanta, and has a large circle of acquaintances in the business world, in which, for the past three or four years, he has been quite prominent. He is a young gentleman of fine attainments, good address, and is always faultlessly attired in neat fitting clothes, put up after the model set forth in the latest fashion plate.

Good dress is one of the marked charac teristics of Crane.
Of recent years he has been trading in real estate and has kept an office in the Equitable building. He had a nice office there, which was well furnished and gave the idea to all visitors of a large and prosperous business. He did a fairly good business and his credit was always classed

Day before yesterday Crane negotlated to Dr. Styles two notes signed by J. W. Green, the Wheat street merchant, and endorsed across the back by himself. The notes called for $325 each and had the appearance of genuineness. Crane let Dr. Styles have them at a fair discount, so the doctor says, and he thought he was making a straight transaction. Yesterday he called on Chief of Detectives Wright and said that he had been swindled and that he wanted Crane ar rested. He stated that the two notes he had purchased from Crane were clever forgeries: that they had been so proby Green, and that he had called on Crane and told him of his crookedness, and that he had failed to set the matter right, so he wanted him punished by the law.

Chief Wright at once took hold of the case and went to work to find the real es-A visit to his home revealed the fact that Crane was not there and gave rise to the belief that he had left the city. Then the detectives began a close search for Crane, but he could not be found. It is not known whether or not he has left the city, but the officers are inclined to the pinion that he has.

Many rumors of much larger forgeries by were being circulated last night but if there was any truth in them if could not be found out. The detectives who are working on the case will say but little

The news of Crane's reported crooked ness will be received with astonishment by his many acquaintances in the city, most of whom will regard it with increduli-ty. He is well and favorably known in the city, and any stories of crookedness on his part will necessarily create sur-

KNITTING MILLS DESTROYED.

The Opelika Mills Burn, Throwing About One Hundred Out of Employment,

Opelika, Ala., May 4.-(Special.)-The Opelika knitting mills, including the stock and machinery, were completely destroyed by fire this morning at 1 o'clock. The alarm was given and the fire company promptly responded, but was too late to do any good. The origin of the fire is unknown, but us supposed to have been the work of an inendiary. It was first discovered in the ront part of the building in which there had een no fire during the day. About one hundred operatives, mostly chil-

Khiva Off the Arabian Coast.

Aden, May 4.-The destruction is reported of the British steamship Khiva off the Arabian coast, probably with appalling loss of life. The Khiva sailed from Bombay April 12th, carrying a large number of Mahame dans bound as pilgrims to Mecca. The pilgrims were so numerous that they crowded the vessel, taking up all available room.

It is learned that the Khiva was burned off Ras (cape) Marbet, on the coast of Arabia. Of the great number on board 900 are said to have been saved, others perishing in the sea or flames which consumed the vessel.

ANOTHER SENSATION. MONTHLY REPORTS

THE KILLING OF W. K. GLOVER.

the Six Others Was Begun in Douglasville Yesterday.

Douglasville, Ga., May 4 .- (Special.)-The preliminary trial of the alleged murderers of W. K. Glover was called at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The defendants severed and Jack Smith was put upon trial. Seven witnesses were examined, but no evidence is adduced so far that would in the least convict him. The case employed the entire afternoon and at 6 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

The most sensational feature of the entire investigation was the arrest of John M. James, a brother of United States District Attorney Joe S. James, charging him with having a hand in the murder.

A large number of witnesses are yet to be examined and nothing definite can be stated as to the final result of the trial. ANOTHER FATAL ACCIDENT

Marks the Street Improvements in Albany. Melons and Bicycles

Albany, Ga., May 4.—(Special.)—The construction of the sewerage system of this city was marked by another fatal accident this afternoon, which crushed the life out of Sam Hart, a negro laborer, before any assistance could be rendered him. Hart was standing at the bottom of a ditch about eight feet deep when suddenly a great mass of earth gave way and rolled round and enveloping him crushed him to death. When he was dug out blood was flowing in streams from his ears and mouth, showing that he had been crushed to death instead of having been suffocated. He is the second negro who has met death in the same manner since the construction of the sewers becam.

Bicyclists in Large Numbers.

In proportion to population Albany no doubt has a larger number of wheelmen than any city in the state. Bicycles are selling here like hot cakes and a person who is not the owner of a most modern "safety" is hardly recognized. In furtherance of this craze a wheelmen's tournament has been arranged for the 15th of May. The joust, if such it may be called, will consist in riding a given distance, picking up a block from a basket on each ride and returning, place the block in a basket at the starting point. The rider who accomplishes this feat in the quickest time gets $20, the second $10 and the third $5. Invitations will be extended to wheelmen of neighboring cities and a great occasion is expected. It is possible that a ball will follow the contest. expected. It is possible follow the contest.

The Melon Outlook. Mr. John W. Forrester, of Lee county, one of the largest melons growers of this one of the largest melons growers of this section, said to your correspondent today that he confidently expected to begin shipping melons six weeks from this date. In going over his melon farm this morning he found the vines blooming nicely and he always had melons ready for market six weeks from the discovery of the first bloom. Notwithstanding the backwardness of the season the general prospect for a good melon crop is flattering, said Mr. Forrester.

An Emphatic Denial from LaGrange Conce rning That Katie Cline Sensation.

LaGrange, Ga., May 4 .- (Special.)-The sensational statements of Miss "Katie Page," given in Tuesday's Constitution, reflect considerably on LaGrange's colleges, the pride of Georgia. The young lady in question once lived in LaGrange (about eight years ago), and her name appears on no role of the LaGrange Female col-lege. This institution is famed for its discipline, etc., and the citzens of La-Grange ask that this denial and the following card from the faculty be given as prominent space as was given the article in question. The following card explains it-

LaGrange, Ga., May 4, 1803.—Miss Katle Cline. whose name was so conspicuously mentioned in Tuesday's Constitution, and who represented herself as having been a pupil of LaGrange Female college has not been enrolled in this college during the past eight years of our connection with the institution. To those familiar with the management and discipline of the college, this statement will hardly be necessary. No pupil of this institution ever leaves college or returns unless she wears the college uniform. The uniform cap has on it in gilt letters the initials of the college, so that our pupils are recognized wherever they go. RUFUS B. SMITH, EULER B. SMITH. President.

Death of Mrs. Harris.

Milledgeville, Ga., May 4.—(Special.)—
Mrs. Dr. I. L. Harris, of this city, died suddenly here this morning at 5 o'clock of heart disease. She had complained some during the week, but nothing serious was thought of it. Among the women of the city for healthy appearance, Mrs. Harris stood easy in the lead. She was a virtual picture of health and her sad death has shocked the community. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. W. H. Burnett, of Sparta. She was married to Dr. Harris seventeen years ago. She leaves a husband and two children to mourn her loss.

AND THERE IS MUCH COMMENT.

William Randall-Mr. Cabaniss as Receiver-Personal Mention.

Macon, Ga., May 4.—(Special.)—It has for years been the monthly custom of the president and directors of the Central railroad to publish in the daily papers of Savan nah, from which the other papers of the state copied, a statement of each month's business done by the Central road and its branches. It was in the nature of a comparative statement, and these statements were always read with much interest by all interested in the Central and its lines. It is now a subject of comment and criticism that these monthly statements have not been printed since the Central went into the hands of a receiver, and certain Southwestern stockholders express themselves as in-tending to try and have the monthly statements published, at least so far as relates to the Southwestern road. They wish to know what are the earnings and expenses of the Southwestern. They believe that the Southwestern is easily paying expenses, and more, and that the earnings of the Southwestern are being used to help operate the Central. A demand will probably be made to have the business of the Southwestern for the months of January, February, March and April of this year published, and the bus-lness of each month thereafter so long as it remains under control of the Central.

Here is an idea advanced by a Southwest ern railroad official that may not be very palatable to some. He says if the reorgani-zation scheme for the Central road fails he thinks that all the stock that has been de posited to enter the reorganization will be as sessed a certain per cent to defray the ex-penses of lawyers' fees and other costs attending the preliminaries of organization.

Want to Build the Road.

A number of gentlemen interested in the Ocmulgee Land and Improvement Company have been holding conferences several days with a view of having a street railroad built to the lands of the company lying north of Macon. Either an independent line will be built or one of the present electric street railways will be extended to the property. The building of the road would bring on the market much valuable land for residence and manufacturing purposes. A beautiful park would also be established for picnics, dances, etc. There seems now to be no doubt that an electric road will be constructed at a near day to the Ocmulgee lands.

THE NEWS AND GOSSIP OF ROME.

A Novel Transportation Scheme of Floyd County Farmers-Clyde Shropshire Back from Paris-Personal Notes.

Rome, Ga., May 4.—(Special.)—Today the Armstrong, Rome's big hotel, is in the hands of a new management. Mr. W. M. Lewis, of Dalton, is the new manager.

Mr. Lewis arrived in Rome yesterday afternoon and took charge of the hotel this morning. Under the management of Colonel A. W. Walton, who has been in charge of the hotel for the past five months, it has prospered and its patronage has wonderfully increased, but Colonel Walton had other pressing business matters on his hands which demanded his attention and he could not remain in charge of the house without detriment to his private business, and for this reason he retired. Under Colonel Walton the house became very popular and the force he organized was an excellent one. Mr. Will Goodwin, who came from the Kimball to become head clerk under Colonel Walton, will retain his position under Mr. Lewis and so will Mr. John W. Coker, the popular night clerk. Mr. Lewis is an experienced hotel man and will keep the Armstrong up to the high standard it has maintained under Colonel Walton. A Novel Transportation Plan.

It seems that the alliance idea of co-operation still exists among the farmers along the Coosa river between Rome and Gadsden and just now is coming to the front with a very new and very novel plan.

There are two lines of transportation be tween here and Gadsden, the White Star steamboat line, and the Rome and Decatur railroad. The farmers living in the territory traversed by these lines are not satis-ned with the rates charged, and they propose to build a steamboat themselves. The boat will be built after the co-operation plan on which the alliance stores were organized several years ago, and will carry freight much cheaper, so they say, than either the railroad or Captain Say's boat. The headquarters of the remarkable transporheadquarters of the remarkable transportation company is at Cedar Bluff where it is reported the work on the new boat will begin is a few days. The name of the boat will be the "Aliance Lily," and it will be a big stern wheeler.

A telegram has been received by Mr. W.

will go to New York or Atlanta to make his future home.

The preparations for the great demonstration on firemen's parade day, May 9th, are actively going forward and if nothing occurs to disturb the arrangements it will be one of the greatest days Rome has ever seen. In addition to the parades and races of the firemen there will be a great bicycle race on a two-mile track, a boat race on the Oostanaula river and at night there will be a great ball and ice cream fastival at Lysle park. This ball will be attended by all of the local military in full uniform.

Captured in Alabama.

Captured in Alabama. George Burke, the well known queer money maker and all round tough who has caused a great deal of trouble to the fedcaused a great deal of trouble to the federal authorities, has at last been captured. He was picked up at Round mountain about twenty-live miles from Rome in Alabama by United States Marshal Thomas W. Trippe. Burke has long been wanted for dozens of offenses committed both in Georgia and Alabama. It has been his game to operate along the state line and to pass easily from one state to another. About two months ago he disappeared from Georgia and took up his abode in the vicinity of Round mountain. Here he made counterfeit money on the wholesale and also operated a small still, which he made from an air value stolen from the Bass from an air vale stolen from the Bass furnace. The still was put up in a double chimney in the house and the still was in one fireplace while the worm was in another. This still would produce only two and a half gallons of liquor per day and was said to be the smallest still ever operated. Several days ago Officer Trippe captured a man named Erwin in Calhoun county, Alabama, where he had been showing counterfeit money liberally about a country store, and after his capture Erwin confessed and gave the gang away. He said George Burke made the money at his home near Round mountain, and that he made theoin in all denominations from 5 cents up to $13,000.

The officers proceeded a few days lates to m an air vale stolen from the Bas $13.000.

The officers proceeded a few days later to Round Mountain and raided the home of Burke. He was taken by surprise and easily captured, although he is known to be a desperate man. The little still was captured and destroyed. No mould could be found, and it is believed that Burke's mother threw them into the river while the officers were securing her son. Burke was carried to Anniston and locked up.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

The tone of the real estate market leans to quiet, and the indications are not very many nor auspicious for a sudden boom—one that would be likely to collapse—but the genuine Atlanta rise in real estate values will be on hand pretty soon.

There have not been very many sales the past few days and only a few are chronicled for yesterday, although there are several deals pending; among them one that involves business property to the amount of $40,000. Some of the real estate men are as confident as soap bubbles and others are not quite so hilarious, but all are unanimous in stating that trade is expected to brisken up some.

"I haven't made but one sale," said Captain Hendrix, speaking of the day's business, "and that' was of a lot out on Pryor street, which sold for $1,590. It was 50x150. The market is quiet but 1 hope to see things more right along from now on. I have a number of sales pending."

"Just closed an $8,000 deal as you came in, and I have the money. Trade is booming and I don't want anything better. I have sold eleven pieces of property this week and last." The speaker was Mr. George Ware, and he was very enthusiastic over the outlook.

"We have only closed up one trade today," said Mr. Mayson, of the firm of T. C. & J. W. Mayson, "and that was a Woodward arenue lot, which sold for $1,750. I think the prospects are fine for increased sales with the opening of warmer weather."

"The only sale on my books today," said Mr. Samuel Goode, "is that of a piece of property in Marletta. The amount it brought was $3,000, which I consider very good. The outlook is promising."

"We had an auction sale out on Fortress merne, Pryor street and West Lyenne," remarked Mr. W. M. Scott. "The sale amounted to only $4,000. The ontlook is very quiet."

quiet."
Captain A. J. West had made only one sale, that of some property for $5,000, but has several deals pending, among them one of $40,000, which involves business property, and is being negotiated for by an outside man. "We sold a nièce of property on Garden street for $1,000 today. I am just closing a deal of property on Houston and Pratt streets. We sold a tract of land out on Peachtree road for $11,000 this week. The market is firm."

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

Mr Goodtaste Tells His Picnic Experience

Mr Goodtaste Tells His Picnic Experience
Last Summer.

Upon being asked what was the most enjoyarde event of his life, Mr. Goodtaste says it was his picnic on the 10th of last May.
He says, "I had an engagement with Miss Belle — to act as her escort and to have a good time generally together. The sun was bright and clear that May morning, and about 8 o'clock six couples of us started in a big wagon to Ball Springs. We were a joily party and arrived at the springs in high spirits. The morning was spent agreeably in dancing and talking, and then we adjourned to the Big spring for dinner. I had my place next to Miss Belle, and never enjoyed a dinner as much. Why. I can remember yet what we had for dinner there. First, I was handed sandwiches with delicious sandwich chicken between the bread. Then, fresh and crisp Saratoga chips that tasted just like they had come from the oven; French sardines (f bless the man who invented the key to open them with—they were so little trouble); salmon, lobster and strings were the meats that we had. Chow-chow pickles, and the best home-made stuffed cucumbers ever eaten.
The cilves, too, were large and julcy. I had no idea they were so good. Then, we had delicious peaches in heavy syrup—why half of one peach filled a saucer; and the vanilla and ginger wafers suited them exactly. How much I did enjoy a glass of feed Tolo tea. It was exhilerating and pleasant and delicious.
Well, the dinner thally came to an end, as all good things must do.

"After dinner we dispersed in couples and Miss Belle and I sat under a big oak tree. I was partly in love with her before; but that dinner finished me. I could withstand her charms no louger, backed as they were by such delicious cooking.

"Miss Belle, says I, 'I have always loved you, out feared to marry, as I had heard so much about young housekeepers' cooking.

"Mr. Goodtaste." says Belle, (oh, how my heart beat), 'I cannot deceive you. Every single thing at this dinner was bought at Hoyt's. I did not cook a *thing. What can

The Cuban Uprising, It remains to be seen whether the Cuban revolutionists will obey the order to surrender within eight days.

Our advices are from Spanish sources and it is quite likely that they underrate the importance of the outbreak. The revolutionists may number only a few hundred men, or they may run up into the thousands. Just at present we can get nothing reliable in regard to their strength.

Even in the event of a formidable revolt, the Spaniards have the advantage on their side. They have 12,000 regular soldiers in Cuba, including the famous civil guard, an organization composed of veterans who patrol the island in squads of cavalry. These men know every inhabitant and know whether he is loval or disloval.

If this force is insufficient Spain can furnish more troops. She has on a peace footing 100,000 soldiers and 452, 000 on a war footing. Her colonial forces number 286,000. Her navy has 126 steam vessels, exclusive of a torpedo fleet, and seven of her ironclads are of the highest class. Such a power should be able to deal with Cuba if the inhabitants were all united, but the islanders are divided, and doubtless at least half of them would side with the

Under the circumstances, we see little hope for Cuba, until the United States purchases the island at some future day. No ordinary rebellion has any chance of success.

The Platform Is the Test.

A few of the editorial brethren in Georgia are developing such a tremendous faculty for dreaming dreams and beholding visions that they allow themselves to be led away from the realities.

Our readers have already seen some of the results of these dreams and visions in the peculiar attacks which have been made on those newspapers which are honest and frank enough to demand the redemption of every pledge made by the democratic party in its platform. by which pledges the democrats of the south were enabled to effectually dis pose of their third party and republican antagonists. Strange to say, some of the newspapers which now officiously set themselves up as guardians of the administration, show their teeth every time another newspaper urges the redemption of the party's pledges. They even go so far as to charge that party honesty is "an attack on the administra-

We are of the opinion that the brethren who are engaged in formulating such charges are doing an injustice to themselves, to the people and the president. Their sensitiveness to the trend of democratic discussion will not find a sympathetic echo in the minds of the people, whose sole interest in politics is to put in operation those principles of government which they believe will restore equity to legislation and promote the greatest good of all. We have been trying to fathom the purposes of the supersensitive brethren, who are trying thus early to sow the seeds of discord in the minds of the But their silence, when we apply to them the logic of their position, is baffling. When The Constitution, showing from the records that New York and Ohio had more federal offices than all the southern states put together, called for reform, these brethren declared that we were attacking the administration. When The Constitution, representing the unanimous desire of the people, urges the prompt redemption of the pledges made in the demoratic plat-form—the repeal of the McKinley law, the reform of the tar ff, adequate finan-cial relief and reform, with no discrim-ination against silver, and the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state bank cirin the way of ordinary discussion, the prompt redemption of these pledges, the supersensitive brethren say that we are attacking the administration.

The charge is so uncalled for, and originates from such contemptible qualities of mind that it is hardly worth noticing, but the most curious fact about it is the haste with which its authors run away from it when an effort is made to bring them face to face with the logic of it. When The Constitution asks them plumply why it is an attack on the administration to insist on an equidivision of the federal offices table among the states, or to keep the pledges of the democratic platform steadily in view, there is no reply. Nothing is heard from the supersensitive brethren except the shuffling of feet as they run away from their own pop-gun which they are horrified to find is about to go off at the wrong end.

Another development that is worthy of note may be best described by the following extract from an editorial article which we find in The Washington (Wilkes county) Chronicle:

There evidently will be an effort to make an anti-Cleveland democrat governor of Georgia. It will be represented that this is necessary to keep the populists from electing the governor. The contest will be wholly in the primaries. Georgia a are going to eral politics into the governor's elec-tion. They are for Cleveland and would not want any man who fights the president openly or in ambush.

This statement is ridiculous on the face of it.

The gubernatorial contest in Georgia, if there is any, will be between a democrat on one hand and an anti-democrat on the other. The contest for the nomination will be between democrats-men who supported and who stand on the democratic platform. We do not know of any Cleveland or anti-Cleveland democrats. Those who are trying to set up such a ruling are doing the grossest injustice to Mr. Cleveland. They are trying to make him out bigger and greater than the party, whereas he would be the first to repudiate such an assumption if it were brought to his attention. As the president, his relations to the democratic platform are simply those of the humblest democrat in the land.

And the platform is the thing. platform is the gauge and test of democracy. It is the declaration of principles made by the party. It is the official utterance of the organization. Whoever accepts it, and stands on it, and lends it his loyal and enthusiastic support is a democrat, and there cannot be found at this time any other measure of democracy in Georgia or elsewhere. There were Cleveland and anti-Cleveland men before the party organization spoke, but when the party formulated its platform and named its candidates there were no longer any Cleveland or anti-Cleveland democrats. Nor are there any such now except in the minds of those editors who seem anxious to merge the party and the party's principles in the personality of the president. The man who stands squarely by the democratic platform and all its pledges is a democrat, and there is not in Georgia any other kind of democrat.

Magnifying His Office.

The tart telegram of Governor Sylvester Pennoyer, of Oregon, to Secretary Gresham is interesting mainly because it shows a streak of the irritation that was felt by certain southern governors in the old days when they suspected that the federal authority was ntruding on their domains.

The governor of Oregon doesn't seem to have a great regard for any kind of a president. When Mr. Harrison passed through Oregon, on his return from his southern junket, it was suggested to Governor Pennoyer that it would be the correct thing to call and pay his respects to the president. The reply was characteristic. "He knows where to find me," said the governor. "If he wants to see me let him call on me."

This shows that the governor of Oregon is inclined to magnify his office and to regard the governor of a state sovereign in its own sphere as in some respects as big a man as the president of the United States.

The Government's Obligations.

The administration has decided for the present, as our readers know, to pay in gold the notes that the government has contracted to pay in silver or in coin. This, of course, disposes for the time being of the purely economic question, but it does not dispose of the moral question, which, in the nature of things, takes precedence in such matters. As a mere temporary expedient, Mr. Carlisle's disposition may be both wise and prudent. That is to say, it may be both wise and prudent, as a merely temporary expedient, to redeem the silver notes in gold, and for that reason The Constitution does not endorse that line of western democratic criticism which strongly hints that Mr. Carlisle is merely carrying out the financial policy of the Harrison administration.

This is to take a merely superficial view of the matter. Those who have watched Mr. Carlisle's policy closely and understandingly must be aware of the fact that from the moment he entered office he has been constantly engaged in a contest with the speculative element in Wall street which has controlled every republican secretary of the treasury since the war. Mr. Carlisle has made a firm stand against this element from the very first, and we have no doubt he had the best of reasons for resorting to the temporary expedient of paying the silver obligations of the government in gold. It should be borne in mind that the speculative element in Wall street is not afraid of a panic. It has gathered in its largest supply of plunder during a period of panic, and its greed has sharpened its appetite to the point of recklessness. Those who have kept an eye on Wall street during the recent raid on the gold reserve cannot have failed to perceive that certain interests in Wall street are not averse to a condition of affairs that will put a premium on gold as against silver and its paper representatives. While other interests in various parts of the country were contributing gold to strengthen the treasury reserve Wall street held entirely aloof. Not a dollar's worth of sid came from that quarter, and its newspaper organs declared that contri-butions of gold from Wall street in ex-change for greenbacks would not be change for greenbacks would not be "business." So that it has been demonstrated once more that patriotic motives have no place in Wall street. It

These are facts to be remembered by those democrats who are inclined to criticise Mr. Carlisle's temporary expedient. From a purely economic point of view, considering the attitude of Wall street, it may be best to redeem the silver obligations in gold. It should be remembered, moreover, that Mr. Carlisle's temporary policy does not in the slightest degree obscure the moral question. That remains as clear as ever, and is not in the least affected by the emergency which has led Mr. Carlisle to take a purely economic view of the matter. The government has certain debts outstanding which are represented by the paper currency in circulation. Some of these debts the government has obligated itself to pay in gold, some in coin, and some in silver. The gold obligations are known as gold certificates, the coin obligations are represented by the legal tender notes, and the silver obligations are represented by the silver certificates. The particular obligation is written across the face of each note, so that the holder thereof s put on notice as to its status.

Now the government is under no moral obligation to redeem in gold those notes that are redeemable in "coin" or in silver dollars. As to whether the moral question shall be paramount or take precedence over the purely economic view, that is a matter to be decided to fit the occasion, but no temporary expedient can obscure the moral question. The people understand it thoroughly, for it is a matter that affects their most vital interests.

A Sectional Cry.

The Chicago Tribune views the growing popularity of the proposed income tax with undisguised alarm. It says: The Tribune printed recently an urgent demand by The Atlanta Constitution for an income tax, so as to make it possible for congress to take the duties off of foreign competing products and yet have revenue enough for the needs of the government. Other Georgia democratic papers and leaders are joining in quite generally in this demand. This is not surprising. A graded income tax would be popular in that state. The number of men who would be hit and hurt by it would not be large, and the democratic-confederate party in that state is overwhelmingly strong. It is ruled by old rebels and their sons, banded together to keep down the negroes and animated by an intense hatred of the repub-licans of the north, who whipped them back into the union and emancipated their slaves, offenses which will not be forgiven or forgotten for a long time to come.

A heavy, graded, inquisitorial, injurious income tax on the business men of the north would rejoice the hearts of the Georgians and have their zealous support. The more it damaged and crippled those business men the better the confederates of the south would like it and the more determined would they be that it should not be repealed. They would be willing to lose the votes of a good many thousand wealthy confederates, because more damage would be done to the order. union sections of the country than to the

This is sectionalism run mad. The republican organs raise the same cry when we protest against fraudulent pensions, when we propose to reform the tariff, when we demand bimetallism and when we advocate state banks. They see in all of these reforms a purpose inimical to the interests of the north, and especially the east.

Now, in the light of the history of the republican party, The Tribune's excited rant is simply amusing. Only the other day, a leading New England newspaper in protesting against the present organization of the senate financial committee as threatening the interests of the east, admitted in so many words that for thirty years the government had been organized, and had directed its financial policy with a view to prooting and g up the materia terests of the eastern corner of the republic at the expense of other sections.

If a sectional financial policy has prevailed for a generation in the interests of the east, it comes with bad grace now for the favored capitalists and privileged monopolists of that locality to complain because it is proposed that they shall pay their just and proportionate share of taxes.

But a general income tax is not sectional any more than any other tax applicable to the whole country is sectional. The Chicago paper intinates that such a tax would exasperate democratic capitalists in the east and cause them to reduce wages and employ fewer hands in their mills and factories.

Admitting that some democrats in the east, and also in the south and west, will oppose the tax for selfish reasons are the people to pause in their work of reform because the privileged few clamor against it? Shall the plain citizen in Georgia or in Iowa pay a heavier tax on his visible property in the shape of a $5,000 farm than is paid by a bondholder in Massachusetts with an annual income of $10,000?

If it is sectionalism for the heavily taxed farmer to demand justice, is it not sectionalism for the untaxed speculator in the east to shirk the payment of his share of the public expenses? The people propose to have something

EDITORIAL COMMENT. Some of the newspapers are poking fun at Mr. Carter for making a speech forty hours long before the Behring sea commission. That is nothing. Tichborne's counsel made a speech over one hundred and fifty days long

During the recent visit of the federal and confederate generals to the battlefield of Gettysburg, General Mahone was thrown with General Howard, this most plous general in the federal army. Mahone's conversation was punctuated with profanity, and while listening to him it is thought that Howard must have suffered untold agony. The Virginian, how suffered untold agony. The Virginian, however, was entirely unconscious of the torture he was inflicting and it never occurred to him that his companion was as sensitive about profanity as a gentle woman. But Mahone thought that the recollection of Gettysburg was enough to make any man swear. A very entertaining and valuable book, now

A dozen or more Georgia newspapers are doing some growling on this line. The Calhoun Times says:

SILVER AS MONEY.

Hawkinsville Dispatch: Silver is good enough money for the masses of the people. It ought to be good enough for the few who are more fortunate than the masses, and who have great wealth.

Americus Times-Recorder: The Columbus Enquirer-Sun does not agree with The Savannah Press that the people of Georgia are overwhelmingly for free silver, as the lines are now drawn. But in spite of being opposed to free silver The Press is forced reluctantly to admit that the people of this state are certainly in favor of silver, and The Press is correct. The Enquirer-Sun ought to keep up with the sentiment of the people of Georgia better than to make so glaring an error.

Douglasville New Source

Douglasville New South: A recent expression of President Cleveland on the financial situation, if we have rightly interpreted his former utterances, seems to be a contradiction. It is our opinion that this movement will not only depreciate the value of sliver but place gold at a premium, which is not the

If we understand the matter, at least the interances quoted, it is the policy of the present administration to pay out gold for silver certificates. That is what Mr. Clereland says, and the conclusion the people will draw. Let the New York bankers be paid off in silver for their silver certificates and nor in gold. certificates and not in gold.

GRESHAM'S WARNING.

Why He Telegraphed to the Pacific Coast Governors.

Washington Special. As soon as Secretary of State Gresham returned here he gave his attention to important and somewhat startling reports from California. These reports were to an anti-Chinese outbreak is almost certain to occur in San Francisco and throughout the Pacific country when the Chinese exclusion act takes effect within the next few days. The information which came to Secretary Gresham was quite specific and wholly relia-ble, and it indicated danger of great violence to the Chinese population, particularly through California. Within an hour after Secretary Gresham lefs the presidential train, bringing him back from Chicago, he was framing telegrams to the governors of the far western states, appealing to them to maintain order and to protect the Chinese against assault. One of these tel-egrams was to Governor Morrow, at Sacraento, Cal. It was quite lengthy, and informed the governor that the state department had reliable reports indicating danger of violence to the Chinese population when the Geary exclusion act takes effect. Judge Gresham added that President Cleveland earnestly hoped that the govrenor would employ all lawful neans for the protetion of the Chinese in California. The nature of the information which has reached the secretary of state cannot be as-certained, but it is evident from his telegrams to Governor Morrow and others that he regards the subject as serious and the danger threatening. It is quite unusual for the federal authorities to appeal to the governor of a state regarding police affairs within the jurisdiction of the state. It will be recalled that when the New Orleans atrocity occurred and Italy demanded redress for the lynchng of a number of her countrymen, Mr. Blaine, the secretary of state, insisted that the subject was one wholly within the juris-diction of the governor of Louisiana and that the federal government had nothing to do with the case. Judge Gresham's telegrams in-dicates a departure from the old rule, and a desire on the part of Mr. Cleveland and his associates to maintain order and protect the Chinese without wasting words struction of the constitution as to tive rights of the state and federal govern-

Legislative Control of Wages

From The St. Louis Republic. The Atlanta Constitution thinks that when the Illinois house voted to submit a consti-tutional amendment giving the general assombly absolute power in all questions relat-ing to the wages of persons in the employing to the wages of persons in the employ-ment of corporations it did it to "curry favor with the socialists."

This is a mistake. It was done without realizing the enormous extent of the power thus demanded. If such an amendment were adopted, wages in Illinois could be reduced by vote of the general assembly, or laws could be passed giving corporation judges greater power over labor than that the federal court are attention to a very laws. il courts are attempting to exercise. It would be in the power of a lobby with money sufficient to control a corrupt balance of power in the legislature, to pass an act under which in the legislature, to pass an act under corporation employes in Illinois could be pun-ished for striking and compelled to return to ork.

If adopted, the amendment would deprive If adopted, the amendment of all the the labor employed by corporations of all the safeguards of its rights which it has enjoyed safeguards of its rights which it has enjoyed under the various constitutions of Illia would then be constitutional for a lobb trolled legislature to exercise the same pover over labor that the czar of Russia execises over his peasants.

A Brighter Outlook.

From The New York Tribune. But advertised panics never take place, as a watched pot never boils. When every-body is fully warned that trouble is to be expected everybody gets his business ready so that he can stand almost anything. At such times the only people who are likely to suf-fer much are the speculators who have gam-bled on sunshine when there was a storm visibly coming. Venturesome citizens of this bled on sunshine when there was a storm visibly coming. Venturesome citizens of this class are having just now an uncomfortable time. But the legitimate business of the nation is steadily getting itself into shape for some years of difficulty and trial, and it will probably show that "forewarned is forearmed."

Up to this time Augusta has had the best of the schedule, decidedly. The team has had more games at home than almost any team in the league, and that has had lots to do with the winning streak it has had. There is no doubt that it is one of the strongest teams in the league and that it will be able to hold its own with any of them, but it is a well-known fact that any team can do better work at home than away from home.

team can do better work at home than away from home.

Macon's defeat by Chattanooga has thrown her in the last place, and the chances are that the team Dan Shannon is leading around the country will not be in the race during the first half of the season. Shannon, however, has gathered around him a lot of good ball players, and as soon as they come down to work they will mark a pace in the league. The team is now getting something Manager Burbridge never got out of the town, and that is the support of the newspapers. Pennington, of The News, is the only man in that town who gave Burbridge anything like a square deal, and he did that because he knew that Burbridge not only deserved it all, but that it was the only way to get good work out of the team. Pennington is now standing right behind Shannon the same way and is pulling for him with all the strength there is in a Faber. Every day Pennington draws his pencil over paper for Shannon, and is bold in declaring that he has the best team in the league outside of the box.

The Macon team will come today and quite a crowd will come up from Macon to see the game. Shannon has had no luck in Chattanooga, but he has taken the same idea that most of Macon has had.

In other words he had rather beat the Atlanta team than win the pennant, and this afternoon he will put his best foot in front. Pennington and Hal Moore, of The Macon News, and Smith and Kennedy, of The Macon Telegraph, will come up to root for the team.

Manning will not give up the management of the Savannah baseball club bacause his team won the game yesterday afternoon.

Had the Savannahs lost Manning would have been compelled to quit or to go back on his word, something he has never sacrificed in his life.

But Manning did not lose, and last night he and all Savannah were happy.

The game, though it did not fall Atlanta's way, was one of the most exciting and interesting that has been played on the Atlanta grounds this season. Once it was Atlanta's game and then twice after it went Savannah's way Atlanta had mighty good chances to win.

But she didn't win.

But she didn't win.

Before the game opened Manager Murray found that Lally was too ill to work and Keenan was placed in right field. Now Keenan is one of the best pitchers in the southern league, but his work yesterday showed that he is one of the poorest fielders. Base hits and clean work were rare things with him while he appeared to be well acquainted with errors. Twice he muffed fies which gave the Savannah's unearned runs, whereas, if he had pulled them down the game would have been to Atlanta's credit. But no one is sore over the loss of the game, which was due to Keenan's bad work because Keenan works too hard in the box for any one to grumble when he makes a mistake while playing out of his position.

Petry, the man who said he would win the game from Atlanta or throw his arm off, was in the box for Manning when the game opened.

And he remained there, too, without throwing his arm out of joint. In fact there was no reason for him to throw his arm out, because his delivery was too much for the Atlantas, slow though it was. In the first inning he was somewhat wild, giving four men first on balls, but after that he settled down to hard work. In that inning the Atlantas made two runs, and every one felt satisfied.

Atlanta did nothing in the second, but Savannah did, and after the doing Atlantians did not feel so good. Burns led off with a drive to Ely who handled it nicely and threw the batter out at first. Connoughton was given his base on balls, and Nicholl went there on Ely's error, sending Connoughton to third on the play. Cross singled and Connoughton scored. Hurley made a two-bagger and Nicholl scored. Petty sacrificed and Cross scored. Those three runs brought a frown to the faces of the Atlanta fans.

In the fourth a double by Connoughton, a aacrifice by Nicholl, a muffed fly by Keenan and a home-run hit by Petty gave Savanh three more runs.

Ely's two-bagger and Hurley's error gave lanta another run in the fifth. Savannah could not score again after the fourth, but in the ninth Dewald got another run. Dewald, after Keenan had struck out, got his base on Cross's error and went to third on Camp's sacrifice. He then scored on Ely's hit. There the game ended and the score was: Atlanta did nothing in the second, but Sa

It Will Occur This Afternoon from the First Baptist Church.

The funeral of Mr. Russell Reneau will occur this afternoon from the First Baptist church, and all that is mortal of this gifted young man will be laid to rest in the silent city of the dead.

Mr. Reneau graduated from the Boys' High school in the summer of 1881, and was one of the brightest and most promising members of that class. He was recognized as one of the most ready and eloquent impromptu debaters in the school, and was one of the most active members of the Alciphronian Literary and Debating Society.

His career was one of unusual excellence, and, while there was much promised, there was also much fulfilled. Although scarcely twenty-nine years of age, he was one of the most skillful engineers of the south. Added to this, he was strictly moral, and his modesty was such as might even befit a woman. He was greatly beloved by every one who knew him, and the grave never opened to receive a nobler heart than the one of Russell Reneau.

The funeral will occur this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Baptist church, Rev. J. B. Hawthorne conducting the services. The interment will be in Westview cemetery.

Mr. Reneau was the oldest son of Conncilman Reneau, and the sympathy of the whole community goes out to him and his bereaved family in their great affliction.

The following gentlemen will act as pall-bearers: Messrs. R. M. Clayton, A. L. Kontz, H. L. Collier, T. Peeples, R. D. Riley, T. C. McLendon, Clark Howell, Jr., and J. J. Gallard.

That's Where Ed Durant Slept Last

AFTER COVERING OVER A HUNDRED MILES

Howard and Foote Will Most Likely Be

Ed Durant reached Louisville at 1:20 o'clock this morning after a day's run of It was a remarkable run and was made despite several serious mishaps.

The plucky young wheelman was in the saddle as early as 6 o'clock yesterday morning and during the long ride encountered some remarkably rough roads. He spent Wednesday night at a farmhouse remote from a telegraph station, and therefore no news of his whereabouts was telegraphed to The Constitution until he reached New Haven, Ky., yesterday afternoon at 5

He and Howard were not together any time during the day, but if Howard kept the promise he telegraphed to his paper, namely, that he would not stop riding from the time he left Glasgow, until he reached Louisville, he slept in that city last night. But the chances are that Howard and his companion, Foote, did not reach the Falls City. Howard left Glasgow at 6 o'clock in the morning and had one hundred and three miles to cover before reaching Louisville. Putting the two telegrams together seems that the two wheelmen slept not far apart Wednesday night, but as Howard has not yet shown the staying qualities necessary to cover 103 miles a day, the indications are that he slept in the country and dreamed that he was ahead of Durant last night. Durant's fun yesterday was made in the face of several strong obstacles. To begin with he had the very roughest of roads to encounter, and late in the afternoon was thrown into a fence, which accident delayed him for some time. Overcoming all these hindrances, the plucky rider pressed on, and while the largest part of Louisville's population were asleep rolled into that city and telegraphed The Constitution of his arrival. He will likely remain in Louisville until noon today and this afteroon he will turn his face toward the Windy City.

The race from now on will be hot, indeed.

"Have you ever noticed." said Mr. Frank J. Cohen yesterday, "how near some men come to fame and fortune, and then, by some little untoward circumstance, lose both? While going through The Constitution office today I saw two machines which illustrates my point. The first was that big perfecting press, truly the most magnificent piece of mechanism ever perfected. Do you not know that that machine was invented by a man well known and remembered in Atlanta? Yet so it is. In 1877 my partner, in the publication of The Rome Tribune, was Colonel B. F. Sawyer. He became interested in the discovery of a faster printing machine and invented the perfecting press. He took into partnership with himself Dr. Hampton, a dentist of that city, and got out letters caveat on his discovery. He went to New York to finish his models, by the assistance of the Hoes. There a slight flaw was discovered, and the colonel hastened home to get means to complete it. He got the idea in shape, to complete it. He got the idea in shape, but failing to get the money, his letters caveat expired, when the Hoes at once applied for them, and took possession of the plans which they had, and thus Colonel Sawyer, the real inventor, had to stand by and let others have the fortune and fame which were rightly his."

"The other case is that of your typesetting machine," continued Mr. Cohen. "That was invented by a Georgian, and strange though it may seem, I had the contract from the inventor to work up the business of their manufacture if the inventor had not died, and left his papers and designs where they never came to anything. That machine was invented in Rome, Ga., by Colonel Eugene LeHardy, who was the engineer that built the Western and Atlantic railroad. Colonel LeHardy worked for ten years on his pet scheme and great Atlantic Fallroad. Colonel LeHardy worked for ten years on his pet scheme, and spent much money, when died as he was on the point of success. The models, if not destroyed, are in possession of his brother, Dr. LeHardy, of Savannah."

"These are two cases which came under my own observation," said Mr. Cohen, "but they might be supplemented by the invention of the Morse system of telegraphy. In a book written by Professor Morse's daughter, she tells of a coach ride from Hamilton, in Harris county, Georgia, to Columbus. One of the passengers was a Dr. Ingram, who began talking about how the messages of the future would be sent. She said that her father was a close listener to what the doctor had to say, and the result, a few years later, was the Morse system, from which he got fame, while the old Georgia doctor was forgotten. It now behooves a man as soon as he has an idea to have it pattented at once, before some enterprising friend to the north of us gets hold of it, and puts it on record as his own." "These are two cases which came under my

of it, and puts it on record as his own."

The happiest man in town yesterday was Mr. Glen Waters, who has decided that there is no place like Georgia. "When I got off at the depot," said Glen, "I felt like jumping up and embracing everybody I met. I remembered Chief Connolly's men, however, and decided that I had better get a permit before I began my street performances. But I tell you, there is something attractive in the face of a Georgian, and whenever I see one I feel like going into ecstacies. There is no place like Georgia. Her men are the bravest, her women are the sweetest, and her air is the purest that can be found. I am now on my native heath once more, and I propose to stay there."

In the race for city sexton, Dr. Charles D'Alvigny starts off with a powerful endorsement, which must mean much for him. In a letter to Alderman Broyles, chairman of the cemetery committee of the city council, Mrs. Milledge, president of the Ladies' Memorial Association of Atlanta, acquaints him of the desire of the ladies of that society, by unanimous vote, that Dr. D'Alvigny should be re-elected. Mrs. Milledge says, in explanation of this action: "Having known of the active work being done by the other candidates, we thought it best to be outspoken in Dr. D'Alvigny's interest, as having tried him, we know he will de." "For myself personally," continued Mrs. Milledge, "I must add that I cannot see how he could have more thoroughly and entirely protected the interests of our association, and yet at the same time he has, as far as I have had any opportunity of judging, never failed to do his faithful duty in the city's interests." city's interests."

"You may say what you will," remarked "You may say what you will," remarked a stranger within our gates yesterday, as he strode into the Kimball house after a drive over the city, and leaned wearly against the cigar stand. "You may say what you will, but if Peachtree street doesn't lay anything on the American continent in the shade, take it up one side and down the other, then I'll pay for the wine. I tell you, my friend, I have seen them all, and seen them with an eye of close observance and the lawns and groves on Peachtree street form lawns and groves on Peachtree street form the loveliest combination at this season of the year I have seen. Take the lawns in front of the houses pointed out to me as belonging to Messrs. Inman, take the beautiful corner lot of Major Livingston Mimms the grove in front of the Peters house, the grove in front or the recess access, think it was, not forgetting dozens of others along the lines, and you will find that they cannot be downed, not even by the famous Euclid avenue of Cleveland. Just suppose Atlantians had clung to the old southern style of architecture, the tail, white columns and Italian roofs, wouldn't Peachtree have been a beauty, though?"

Speaking of architecture in Atlanta, Downing, the well-known architect, is authority for the statement that the old southern style is coming back fast. "I have been trying ever since I came to Atlanta," said he, "to get the people to adopt a style more suited to the southern climate than the house with a multitude of little towers and choky chimneys. Such a style is all right for a more northerly climate, but we have no snows here of consequence and hence have no need of the dozens of protruding rooflets. What we want here is great airy rooms, halls, verandas and flat roofs. The Italian ought to be the predominating art in southern archive. tecture. Many new houses are going up now thecture. Many new houses are going up now that will be marvels of beauty and harmony when finished. Mrs. Henry W. Grady is going to have a pretty one on Ponce de Leon avenue and several have already been finished on Piedmont avenue. I am glad to see the Italian renaisance coming back into favor in Atlanta. It certainly is the style for a southern climate mar 28-5t top col n r m There were two wills placed on record yesterday in which there is a good deal of inter-est, not alone on account of the large for-tunes divided out, but because of the high A. Rosenfeldsfor character of the men who made them.

The first to be noticed is that left by Ma-jor Daniel N. Speer, formerly treasurer of Georgia. His estate is quite large, but all attempts to estimate it are wide of the mark. In his will he begins by leaving his wife nothing, which requires this explanation, which will set the memory of the tender-hearted major right with those who, in ignorance of the facts, might be tempted to crit-icise him. Major Speer was always a man of means. His wife, who was formerly Miss Moreland, inherited a large estate. Together they lived in harmony, a pleasure to their friends, and raising a family of whom any parents might be proud. When Major Speer was seized with the first premonition that he might not be long for this world the first person he consulted about the future was his wife. The settlement of their estates so as to bring the greatest good to those they were to leave after them engaged their serious attention. It was agreed, as they were both wealthy, that they should mutually make their wills, bestowing all their property upon their three children under such terms as would subserve their purpose. Accordingly, the twin documents were duly drawn up. That of Major Speer, because of his death, has been placed on record, while that of Mrs. Speer awaits the time, which her children hope will be far removed, when it will be necessary to place it upon the same record is willed to the children. When it is stated that the estate of Mrs. Speer is fully in pro-portion to that held by her late husband, all idea of discrimination should vanish.

This brings up the will direct. The property, as stated, is to be divided equally between the three sons of Major Speer-William, Moreland and Spalding Speer. The first named is of age, and will come into possession of his estate as soon as the legal preliminaries can be arranged. The other two. Moreland and Spalding, are placed under the guardianship of their uncle, Colonel George A. Speer, president of the LaGrange Banking and Trust Company. There is a provision that if either or both the young men should develop traits rendering it imprudent to entrust them with their estates, that this trustee is to withhold the money until he receives evidence sufficient of reformation. To make his power in this regard more effective, he is also named as their guardian. Mrs. Speer, however, is named as the sole executrix of the will and will have complete charge of the winding up of the estate. It is altogether likely that th provisions found in this will are to be found also in that of Mrs. Speer, in which case Colonel George Speer would come in as the trustee of the entire united estate.

Mr. Rawson's Will. The will of Mr. E. E. Rawson, which was also admitted to probate yesterday, disposes of $200,000 worth of property, and represents the accumulated investments of one of the shrewdest financiers of the city. From the opening paragraph to the last clause of the will the characteristic precision which controlled and dominated every action of the testator, is distinctly observed He leaves to his wife, Elizabeth W. Rawson, the rental of two of his stores on Decatur street, which amounts annually to the sum of $3,600. The will directs that the property must be insured to the amount of $10,000, and that all taxes and insurance must be deducted from the income arising from this source. The legacy is in lieu of dower, and also of twentve months' support. The furniture of the home place, and also the carriages and horses are left to also the carriages and horses are left to Mrs. Rawson. After her death the pro-Arrs. Rawson. Mr. Louis Rawson, his son, gets $20,000 worth of stock in the Atlanta Coffin Company, of which establishment Mr. Rawson, pans, of which establishment Mr. Rawson, who owned a controlling interest, was for many years the president.

His son, Mr. Sidney Rawson, was also given stock to the amount of $12,000 in the coffin factory, while his daughter, Mary Ray, was given $7,500 worth of stock.

To his sister, Mrs. Susan Barber, he left the sum of $1,000 in cash or in any way she preferred it.

All of his grandchildren were remember-the sum of $1.000 in cash or in any way she preferred it.

All of his grandchildren were remembered. To Emmie and Russell Johnson, the children of Mr. H. S. Johnson, he left the sum of $1.100 to be kept in trust by their father until they should arrive at the age of maturity. To his granddaughter, Loutie H. Ray, he left the same amount to be paid in the same manner on reaching her twenty-first birthday. Elizabeth and Sarah Rawson, the daughters of his son, Mr. W. C. Rawson, were given each the same amount and in the same manner.

Mr. Rawson kept a book in which he recorded the indebtedness of each of his grandchildren to him. Before the legacies are paid to them these amounts will be deducted and they will be entitled to the remainder.

ducted and they will be entitled to the remainder.

The bulk of the estate, after making these special legacies, is to be divided in an equible manner among the other children. The executors of his estate, as named in the will, are Mr. W. C. Rawson, his son, and Judge T. P. Westmoreland and W. R. Hammond, his two sons-in-law.

Several small bequests were made to servants about the house and other parties whom the testator desired to remember in his will.

vants about the house and other parties whom the testator desired to remember in his will.

In the event of any dispute or disagreement among the heirs the executors are to appoint three real estate men or other rellable parties to appraise the property, after which it will be properly divided. If no satisfactory solution of the matter can be arrived at by this apportionment, the property is to be divided up and numbered, each parcel being represented by a strip. The children are then to draw from these strips, the oldest to have the first choice and to draw in the order of seniority. All of this, however, is contingent upon any dissatisfaction which may possibly arise in the winding up of the estate and is simply made out of the abundance of caution. The will was outte lengthy and occupied several pages of closely written paper.

NEW YORK, May 4.—All commission houses rithout of town' connections had immense elling orders at the opening, the main reason eing that margins were exhausted and peole had to sell. The support given to the maret in the first half hour was very satisfactory and the buying on account of the shorts as also quite large. Room traders tried their ands at allying the market but the liquidation was such that prices broke quite badly, till the market was not without its rallies, thaving three distinct rallies, but the market naily closed with a very large decline all round, especially in Cordage, which closed t 16@17 points lower than the night before. The crowd who were running this stock seemd to be in such a postion they could not take NEW YORK, May 4 .- All commission houses around, especially in Cordage, which closed at 16@17 points lower than the night before. The crowd who were running this stock seemed to be in such a postion they could not take care of the price of the stock and all sorts of rumors were flying around, one of which was that a receiver would be appointed for the company and the longs made haste to get out of what they held of the stock. There were three failures announced on the exchange, two of which were small and unimportant, but the third was a large commission house which was said to have been gutted by the decline in Cordage, and Sugar was the next weakest stock to Cordage and the bears seemed to try their best to make the price as low as possible. It has always been the experience of the stock exchange in former panic times that the bears have ceased to smash quotations so as to give the street a breathing spell, but today's bears showed an animosity to the market which created considerable commment. The money market was easy enough, but the trouble is with the great uncertainty. There are a few more failures, but we dont think the situation among brokers is such as to be alarming. We think the situation will soon mend, but buyers of stocks will be expected to deposit big margins with brokers or their orders will not be accepted.

NEW YOFK, May 4—Our market was under the influence of prices in Wall street today rather than to any causes bearing directly upon the staple, and in view of the semi-panic on the stock exchange prices have shown great steadiness. There has been no pressure to sell, the condition of the rivers in the Missispip valley making-sellers caulious about putting out short lines. The long interest is pretty well liquidated, and cotton seems to be accumulating in strength.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 4—Operations in wheat on the board of trade today were inclined to be conservative in view of the panicky condition of affairs in Wall street. The consequence was that prices remained rather steady, and values were not as much advanced as the bullish nature of the situation would have warranted under ordinary cfreumstances. The news from abroad was of unpromising prospects for the crops. Russia was praying for better weather, and France was reported still suffering from the unbroken drought. The weather in this country continued to be bad for the winter wheat, which lies unfavorable for seeding in the northwest. The Cincinnsti Price-Current gave confirmation to the numerous private reports which have been coming to hand of the retrogading condition of winter wheat. The market opened unchanged, and exers for long account and to those who are short. The early buying on the existing legitimate conditions were offset is a great measure by the selling out of about 20,000 bushels by Walker & Co. for account of Henry Allen & Co., of New York, and also sold for many other New York houses, whose customers were in need of what money they had invested in corn to protect their stock interests. The stuff was taken without any considerable reaction, and the market closed with May only ½; below the top with a gain of ½c compared with yesterday's close, while July was off ½c from the highest and an advance of ½c.

Oats were active and strong again principally because of the heavy shipping of cash and a very good demand for the same. The shorts were buying freely also. Patton Brothers were among the heaviest buyers, although there were few large sales, most every one having some short cats to cover. May closed %c from the best figures of the day with a gain of fully %c compared with yesterday's figures. July gained %c, closing %c below the top.

The provision market was firm, although a decline of 5%10c was reported on hogs at the yards. The offerings were light, and it took only a moderate amount of buying by one or two of the leaders to bring the local scalping crowd around to the same side of the market. Wright bid fair and took some September pork, and brokers for Cudahy were good buyers of ribs. The lower hog market caused opening prices to show some decline from yesterday's closing quotations, but the first trades were at the lowest prices of the day. September pork closed 5c lower from the highest, and shows a gain, compared with yesterday's last figures of 30c. September lard is 10c up and September 198 17%. The leaning futures ranged as 1011000 at Closego today.

Atlanta manufacturers not only make the interior finish, office and bank fixtures for her own people, but make them and put them up all over the south.

I cordially invite Mr. Baxter, or any one that feels interested, to call at our factors.

I cordially invite Mr. Baxter, or any one else that feels interested, to call at our factory, and will take pleasure in convincing him that no finer interior finish is made anywhere than is made right in Atlanta.

In our desire to get other manufacturers to locate here let us not underrate those we have, and by a single blow undo what has taken years of hard work to accomplish, by ndvertising to the world that we do not make a thing, when the truth is, nobody makes any finer. HE WANTS IT RESCINDED. Mr. Harry Hill Is the Plaintiff in a Case Filed

A suit was filed in the clerk's office yesterday afternoon by Mr. Harry Hill, in which he claims that he was deceived by certain misrepresentations, and asks that a certain contract be rescinded.

He alleges that on the Sth of December, IS91, he was induced by W. H. Trezevant, confederated with H. Taylor, to sign a contract whereby he agreed to pay $1,000 for a four-days' option on one-fourth interest in the Union Mills and Warehouse Company.

In company with Mr. Taylor, he visited the property. The latter pretended to be perfectly familiar with the business, and so, relying upon his statements, he was induced, without any special knowledge of the business himself, to sign the contract. Before the expiration of the four days he found that the business was a fraud, and that Taylor had grossly misrepresented its status to him.

He had subsequently paid the $1,000, and came into court, through his attorneys, B. W. Wrenn and Hooper Alexander, for the purpose of having the contract rescinded, and also to have the court pronounce judgment against the defendants, each and severally, awarding him the amount of money he had paid out with interest. AT THE GOVERNOR'S TONIGHT.

There Will Be a Grand Rally of the Christian Workers of the City.

The Manufactures of Atlanta.

Editor Constitution—In yesterday's issue of your paper, under the head of "What We Need." I noticed an interview with Mr. T. W. Baxter, in which he says: "Atlanta is in need of a factory that will supply us with all the interior work that is needed in finishing up our homes. * * All of the fine work, or at least a large part of the deconative material that is used in building our homes, is purchased from Cincinnati."

While there may be room for more such factories here as Mr. Baxter speaks of, I feel that it would be a great injustice to Atlanta, which is rapidly becoming the head quarters for the south for just such work as he speaks of, to let his remarks go unnoticed, which serve to put every one on notice, that regards Atlanta as a market for purchasing interior finish, that it cannot be gotten here, but in order to get something At the governor's mansion tonight there will be a grand rally of Christian Workers.

The meeting will be in the interest of the world's convention of Chirstian workers, which meets in this city on the 9th of November.

Every Christian in Atlanta who is actively engaged in the work of disseminating.

ly engaged in the work of disseminating religious truth is cordially invited to attend religious truth is cordially invited to attend the meeting tonight and participate in the general discussion of the work.

The convention will bring to the city as many as five thousand delegates from all parts of the world. The arrangements for the accommodation of such a crowd require considerable discussion, and the practical views of the business men of the city are needed on this point.

Several meetings have already been held, and the work of preparing for the great convention is already under way.

The meeting tonight will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Every committeeman especially is requested to be on hand, as the reports of all the committees will be received and acted upon by the meeting.

A cordial invitation is extended by Governor and Mrs. Northen to every Christian Worker to attend the meeting at the executive mansion tonight.

UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS

The sprightly little actress had just arrived from that city and stopped over here a half hour or so until the Richmond and Danville train left for New York.

"It is all a horrible story which does me great injustice," said she, pointing to a dispatch from Albany which stated that she had created a sensation there and had left hurriedly because of the talk. "This says that I was caught in a compromising position. That is a terrible reflection on me. I suppose it refers to my sitting in a window with Mr. Sam Hall Tift, a young gentleman of Albany. Mrs. Mayo, the proprietress of the hotel where I was stopping, came up to us and declared that it was disgraceful. Mr. Tift replied that he had just asked me to be his wife, adding that he saw nothing disgraceful in that, and did not consider it any of her business. That was probably 11 o'clock at night. Others heard the reply. and can substantiate my statement. I did not leave Albany on account of any scandal, but there was no money to back the company properly, and I refused to continue.

The Johnnies of Albany were evidently upset by the advent of the petite singer and dancer. She has a chic appearance and has more good looks and vivacity than the average soubrette can boast. But why the youths of Albany should have gone wild over her, she does not pretend to say herself. It is inexplicable to her, and she says it was a new and a strange experience.

"Why there came near being several fights about me between the young men. I had to draw a pistol on Tom Mayo, and I threatened to blow his head off. I thought I would have to horsewhip Bryan Hodges. When we would be at rehearsal the boys would we would be at rehearsal the boys would crowd around the stage and gape at the company. I had to do my specialties in short skirts, and I gave my dances just as I would at a regular performance. Then when the rehearsals were over the boys would come renearsals were over the boys wound come around and ask to go home with me. Let me have the pleasure. 'Mayn't I take you to the hotel?' I think you might let me. Miss Van Tassell,' and such expressions I would hear from a dozen. My reply would be: 'Come on, we can all walk together.' The rest of the company would be there, and there was no impropriety. I was determined to play no favorites and tried to be friendly to all, but no more so to one than to another, with the possible exception of Mr. Tift, who was always very gentlemanly. He was respectful, and I appreciated him for he was so different from the others.

"This telegram says that I was wined, and that the bottles popped. I do not believe there is any wine in Albany. I know that I did not see any there, and I was there that I did not see any there, and I was there three weeks. My impression is that the town has none, and that those who are acquainted there will discount that part of the story on its face. Please say, too, that I did not go out driving and return looking as thought out driving and return looking as thought that Deen dissipating. Please do correct that. It is absolutely untrue. jealous boys put up the story on her. "I had been at the hotel only three days when Tom Mayo, a son of the proprietress, came to my room and wanted to be invited to sit I asked him to leave and when he would not, I pointed a pistol which Mr. Tift had given me at his head and threatened to shoot him if he did not get out at once. Then he declared that he would get even with me. He was fresh and several other young men were annoying in their attentions. Another young man, with whom I had taken ice cream in the cafe across the street, attempted to put his arm around me as we returned. I was very angry and had no idea that a friend was near, but suddenly Mr. Tift stepped up and drawing a pistol, made the escort skip. I was very grateful, I can assure you. Two or three young men almost had serious difficulties about me and I was glad to get away. I did not leave the hotel and go to another, but did refuse to take any more meals at the Mayo house after Mrs. Mayo got so indignant all at once. The youths of the town were so annoying that I had to invite a lady to share my room and to go with me everywhere. There was nothing improper in my conduct at any time in Albany or anywhere else, as all who know me will believe. This is a terrible shock to me. I have played all through the south and all over this country and in Australia. I have been starring ever since I was twelve years old and this is the first thing that reflects on my repu tation. That makes it all the more trying

I will not be able to sleep tonight." The distress of the young actress was pitiful as she made her statement, which was corroborated later by a citizen of Al-bany who was in the city. He is the liveryman of the town and he says that his teams came back early when Miss Van Tassell was taken driving and that the driver told him that the couple never got out of the drag.

Mr. King, the young manager from Rome, secured three or four more professional actresses and had them rehearsing "The Hidden Hand" and "Blonde and Brunette." The support was not much to boast of, Miss Van Tassell admits. She thought Miss Van Tassell admits. She thought that there was money behind the venture and was led to believe that a profitable engagement could be played during the summer through the smaller Georgia towns. She speaks most kindly of Mr. Tift and said that he had not run away from Albany. She stated that she knew where he was and had a telegram from him in which he gave her permission to use his name in any way she wished to defend her name and reputation. "I do respect him, but am sorry that I could not leave the city with a better opinion of the young men in general. Mr. Tift gave me a pistol and it is here in my grip," she me a pistol and it is here in my grip," she remarked. She has no engagement for the coming season, but expects to sign with Hoyt & Thomas.

When a Constitution reporter asked her if the other actresses in the company were annoyed as she was, she answered that they were not to the same extent. Asked if she could account for the escape of her associates the first smile danced over her face and her big brown eyes twinkled. "Perhaps it was because they were larger and—and older," she said. And perhaps it was because they were not so pretty and captivating. From all accounts the little soubrette played havoc with the adolescent hearts and left many there aching and wounded.

WHY DR. HICKMAN RESIGNEDP

It Is Claimed That He Would Have Been Dropped Anyhow.

The announcement of the resignation of Dr. W. H. Hickman was quite a surprise to the people out about Clark university yesterday. The news was not wholly unexpected, because there has been much criticism of the doctor by the inside elements composing Clark university, and yet it was sudden.

One gentleman holding a high place out

One gentleman holding a high place out there was emphatic in the declaration that the doctor had only anticipated something that was coming anyhow.

"I want to tell you," said he, "that Dr. Hickman is not the favorite his friends would make him out to be. He has, ever since he took charge of the university, shown himself to be out of sympathy with those to whom he was supposed to have brought tidings of great joy. He was a hard task master, and, therefore, a success in a certain cold, business way, but when it comes down to molding the hearts of men he repelled all ter, and, therefore, a success in a certain cold, business way, but when it comes down to molding the hearts of men he repelled all who came near him."

It was freely stated that Dr. Hickman had a hard time in getting re-elected last year, and that he succeeded because of an implied understanding that he would not be in the way this year. Hence, it was known to the inside few that the doctor would have to go, and what they object to now, as they say, is his attempt, as they claim, to give a black eye to those whom he will leave behind him in charge of affairs.

The friends of Dr. Thirkeld were quite emphatic that that gentleman was the one who held the affections of those around the university to a much larger degree than Dr. Hickman, and that the latter has been envious of this preference, which came altogether from the difference in the temperaments of the two men. The charge that Dr. Thirkeld practices anything like social equality they deny very strongly. They admit that, upon ceremonial occasions, he observes all the courtesies which are due to those who are entitled to admittance into his house. all the courtesies which are due to those who are entitled to admittance into his house. These occasions are rare, consisting principally of a reception once a year, when the students call upon and are entertained by the professors of the college. The matters discussed at such receptions are by no means personal, but are general, and are of a character to elevate the ideas of the young men who are sent out to be the teachers of their race.

The board of control meets in Cincinnati BOYS OF '83.

There Was a Very Enthusiastic Meeting of the Class of 1883 of the Boys' High school in the office of Mr. W. H. Black last night.

It was decided by a unanimous vote of those present to hold a reunion and banquet of the class in the month of June and, if possible, on the anniversary of its graduation.

This will place it about the 27th of the month, as it was during the last week that the exercises occurred.

It was decided at the meeting last night that all who were identified with the class from the beginning of its career in the fall of 1880 until the time of graduation should be admitted to the banquet.

This will insure a large attendance, as the membership of the class was quite large, and, if those are added to the ones who were known at any time as members of the class, it will run the number into the neighborhood of fifty.

A great many of the boys are scattered throughout the country, but still there are enough in the city to make a large banquet, and all of these will enter into the celebration with a hearty zest.

It will either occur at the Kimball house or the Aragon. The time and place will be decided at a subsequent meeting of the committee in charge of the arrangements.

The following committee was appointed last night to arrange the details and make all the preparations necessary for a grand occasion: C. J. Sheehan, chairman; W. H. Black, A. A. Meyer and L. L. Knight.

The Tabernacle in Which the Services of the Christian Church Are Being Held.

The largest crowd since the meeting began was gathered last night in the great tabernacle, and Mr. Maritn, the evangelist, preached a fine sermon on the subject: "Evil speaking." From first to last he held the close attention of the great audience.

The speaker treated of evil speaking in all its phases and gave many vivid illustrations of its blasting effects upon the reputation and character of those against whom it may be directed.

The ahecdotes used in illustration were very striking, and were much enjoyed by the audience.

Mr. Martin shows a great power of delineating character and of impersonating all kinds of people. His sermon last night gave him good opportunity to use his powers and the impression made will be lasting and have good results.

If you want to hear something good go to the tabernacle tonight, and go early, to hear Mr. Martin on "Whiners."

MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

MEETING OF SIOCKHOLDERS.

The Manufacturers' Improvement Company Held Their Annual Meeting Yesterday.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Atlanta Manfacturers' Improvement Company was held in the office of the Kiser-Moore-Draper Company yesterday.

The reports of the various officers, showing the company to be in a highly prosperous condition were read and accepted.

This company, it will be remembered, was the one which succeeded in inducing the Atlanta Cotton Seed Oil mills to locate their extensive works near this rity, and which still owns a large part of that beautiful suburb, Forest Park.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. A. Russell; vice president, Anthony Murphy; general manager, G. W. Adair, and secretary and treasurer, John J. Eagan.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

It Now Seems That the Dead Man Found at Waycross

WAS AN OUTLAW FROM WYOMING.

Chief Connolly Gets a Letter from That State, Giving the Man's History and Past Career.

A fugitive from justice, hunted by the police of every city in the country, a price upon his head, dead or alive, William Crawford a desperate criminal from the wild and woolly west, threw himself in front of a train near Waycross, on April 16th last and was mangled to death.

Beside the railroad track where it had been thrown, was the dead and mangled body of the unfortunate and hunted man. When found no one knew him. A barber at Sessions, a little station not far from Waycross, had shaved him the day before, one or two people had seen him tramping along the railroad, but not one knew his name. It was a question whether he had een murdered and placed on the track, or had thrown himself in front of the train with the rash purpose of committing suicide,
A special from Waycross to The Constitution, which appeared April 16th, told the story of the strange death of the unknown man. The opening paragraph of the spe Waycross, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—William Crawford, a white man, was found dead in the woods near the Air-Line raildead in the woods near the Air-Line rair-road, near Sessions, this morning. It is believe that he committed suicide. A razor was found near him and an ugiy gash had been made in his throat, but it was not thought to be necessarily Iatal. He had probably been dead twenty-four hours when Following was a description of the dead man, with a few other facts about the mysterious anair. Crawford was buried, and his identity remained a mystery. The spe-cial telling of his violent end was widely read and on account of its strong element of myster, excited more than ordinary comment.

Ear off in Wyoming the story was read with extraordinary interest. It was read by the sheriff of Vinta county, whose pulse quickened, and whose breath went faster and faster as he read. He showed the pub-heation to several gentlemen who were quite as well acquainted with William Crawford as he, and all of them agreed that their old friend had made his last es-that their old friend had made his het cape.

The reading of the special in far off Wyoming by the Wyoming sheriff resulted in Chief Connolly receiving a very interesting letter yesterday. The letter came from J. H. Wood, the sheriff in question, and he wanted Chief Connolly to settle the doubts in his mind as to whether the dead man at Waycross was the William Crawford he knew. He is almost certain that the dead man is the same man he has been looking man is the same man he has been looking for. The description tallies accurately, and the end which the unfortunate who was found dead by the railroad track at Sessions found dead by the railroad track at Sessions met, was just such an end as every one who knew William Crawford, of Wyoming predicted he would meet.

William Crawford, of Wyoming, was a prominent stock dealer near Mister, in that state, and mysteriously disappeared twelve months ago. He was a desperate outlaw, and up to May 1st there was a reward of $2,500 for him, dead or alive. It was known that he came south, but in what part of the south he was located could not be learned. In the letter Sheriff Wood gives a good description of Crawford, and asks that Chief Connolly secure a fuller description of the suicide. He also sends a picture of the missing man.

Chief Connolly has written to the authorities of both Waycross and Sessions and hopes to have replies from them by tonight. Taking the two descriptions and all the facts together. Chief Connolly is confident that the dead man at Waycross is the westerner.

by a Large Audience
A large and enthusiastic audience assembled at DeGive's opera house last night to witness an elaborate production of "Boccaccio" by the Deshon Opera Company.
Frank Deshon has numerous admirers in Atlanta and they turned out in full force and completely filled the opera house. "Boccaccio" has been presented many times but last night's performance could not be improved upon. Every one seemed to work with a hearty will and the result was a thoroughly delightful production.

Frank Deshon as Lambertuccio won new laurels and again gave evidence that he is without dobut one of the greatest funmaking operatic comedians that has ever visited Atlanta. His topical songs were encored and encored until he was completely dired out. Claude Amsden, another favorite, created a great amount of laughter as the cooper.

Alice Verona, a new member of the company, made her first appearance in Atlanta lask night in the title role, and made a decided hit. She possesses a charming voice of high cultivation, and is a very great acquisition to this company. Miss Tellula Evans, who appeared with Mr. Deshon during his engagement last summer was a charming Fiametta, and her numerous admirers appreciated her work. Misses Burton, DuBois and Ober, and Messrs. Kane, Nelson and Graham played their respective parts in a satisfactory manner. The chorus is large, well-trained and composed of several really pretty girls. "Ermine" will be presented tonlight with Deshon as Jacques Stroppe, a character in which he is without a peer.

Big Time Expected.

Up among the hills of Gwinnett, just on the outskirts of picturesque Lawrenceville, where the healthful Piedmont breezes scamper about at will, the jolly conductors will picnic with their friends today.

All the arrangements for the big outing have been completed, and this morning at 7:30 o'clock the special trains which are to carry the crowds up to Lawrenceville will pull out of the depot. A pleasant ride over the new line of the Seaboard Air-Line will bring the ticket punchers to their destination, where there is one of the finest picnic grounds in the state.

The committee on arrangements, of which Mr. Fred Bush is chairman and Messrs. Land and Martin are members, has made every preparation for the occasion which can in any way possible add to the pleasure and comfort of the many who will go out. They have arranged for enough trains to handle the crowds, and there will be no crowding of coaches.

The council had passed them, but as a policy regarding public work of this kind has been adopted which puts a stop to the work until after the bond election, the aldermen held the papers back without action. Clarkesville, Ga., May 3, 1893.—Editor Constitution: If the railroads in Georgia are in such a bad fix I would like to know how the Louisville and Nashville and Richmond and Danville railroads can haul flour from Nashville. Tenn.. to Danville, Va., for 19 cents per 100 and charge 31 cents to Cornella, Ga., a much shorter distance? It does seem to me that if the roads can haul to Danville for 19 cents, they surely must make something hauling to all points on the Richmond and Danville, as the inclosed fraffic sheet shows they charge from one-third to one-half more to all points in Georgia and South Carolina. Yours truly.

Atlanta's Detectives Won't Go to the World's Fair.

MR. LAIRD DOES SOME TALKING.

And Says the Detectives Had Better Find Out Who Burned the City's Stables

Mr. Laird, the quiet little man with the ar. Laird, the quiet little man with the brown whiskers, who grinds out spice for the police board, and the gentleman who literally leaped into fame by his vigorous crusade against high and gay kicking, once more tried his good right arm at yesterday's special session of the police board, and said a few things which were not softened by cuphemism. He spoke right out in meeting, and on the things which were not softened by euphemism. He spoke right out in meeting, and on the matter of sending two of Atlanta's detectives to Chicago to remain during the world's fair, he advanced the opinion that if the aforesaid detectives were seeking distinction, experience or practice, they could find it in large doses by driving their noses into the heavy mystery which hangs about the burning of the dumping ground stables. More than that, he said it was the cheeklest thing he ever heard of any city government doing, to ask that another city send two of its best officers to them for the period of six months and pay their salaries during the time. He said some other warm things which are to be found further down the column.

Captain John Bohnefield, the very brave and gallant officer who led the police at the famous Havensky, reter heard.

Captain John Bohnefield, the very brave and gallant officer who led the police at the famous Haymarket riot, has happily been selected to take charge of the detective department of the fair. He is not only a good police detective, but he knows how to twist the English language into a good letter. Give him a fast stenographer and he can convince nearly any city in the country that it will be doing a great and patriotic thing, a thing that even Columbus will appreciate, by sending two detectives to Chicago to catch thieves at the fair. He points out that financial reasons the fair. He points out that financial reasons hinder him from paying the salaries of the detectives sent him, but he very generously makes an offer of $50 per month for each of them, which sum is intended to cover the officers' expenses.

In the choicest Facility Could be said to cover the officers' expenses.

In the choicest English Captain Bohnefield tells about the great benefit to be derived from officers associating together at the fair, and he cannot see how any city government in its right senses can reject his proposition. This pretty letter was read before the board of pretty letter was read before the board of police commissioners yesterday afternoon, and Mr. Laird twisted uneasily in his seat while he read it. The same look came to his face that made it glow one night when he delivered a homily on high kicking.

"I am against any such thing as that," he said decisively. "It would be the height of folly to send two of our detectives to Chicago, situated as the force now is. There's more said decisively. "It would be the height of folly to send two of our detectives to Chicago, situated as the force now is. There's more work here at home than they can attend to. If they want distinction or work to do let them find out who burned the city's stables. Here the city suffered a loss of $30,000, and while the perpetrator is still at liberty we talk of sending two men to Chicago. It's absurd, foolish and out of the question. Keep our detectives at home and let them attend to the work we already have on hand. I think it's the checklest thing I have ever heard of."

Chairman English said that he thought if the city could spare the men it would be a very good thing to send them. He said the benefit would be in the experience the men who were sent would get and in the many criminals they would be able to apprehend. Mr. Gramling agreed with Chairman English. Dr. Spaiding said that Mr. Laird had spoken his sentiments. Then a general discussion of the proposition. It was suggested that it would be a good thing if the mayor were present to give his views on the subject.

The matter was thoroughly discussed pro and con, and finally the cost of the thing would be about $300, whereas the benefits would be in experience and entching criminals in Chicago. Chairman English finally suggested as a compromise that Chief Connolly present the proposition to the mayor and to the police committee and get their views about the matter. He stated that unless council would cover the expenses of sending the men by an additional appropriation that he doubted the good game, or sending them.

So the matter good game, or sending them.

So the matter good to the mayor and police committee. City Connolly vill report progress at the regular meeting of the board next Monday.

"It is to only way to do," said Chairman in English. "We cannot afford to adopt a policy overlooking these things. It is very important that we have a police force of sober men, and unless we do, the force is hopelessly gone. It is our only safeguard. If there is a man in the world who should keep sober and cool-headed it is a policeman. We must show our severe disapproval of drunkenness."

The board took a like view and laid the petition on the table.

It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for, perhaps, a fortnight.

The Pride of Jacksonville's Fire Department

Chief Thomas Haney, of the Jacksonville fire department, was in the city yesterday for the first time since he received his appointment from Florida.

He looked as happy and cheerful as ever, here not even his hast friend would have but not even his best friend would have recognized him if he had not deigned to speak first. His skin is tanned and he is looking finer and healthier than ever be-looking finer and healthier than ever before.

When he went away last September to take charge of the fire department in Jacksonville his friends did not believe that he could stay away from Atlanta like he has, but he did, and is looking all the better for it. It is very evident that he gets plenty to eat, for he weighs an even two hundred pounds, where last year, eight months ago, his avoidupois was only 175.

He is simply in love with the city of his adoption and declares that Atlanta no longer lies next to his heart, but there is every reason to doubt the sincerity of his words in the baseball game between Atlanta and Savannah, and says the only reason the Savannah team wins like it does is because that town is near Jacksonville.

Chief Joyner was in Jacksonville last week and he brings back the report that the people of Jacksonville know a good thing when they see it, and in consequence, Chief Haney is the pride of the town. "It was a pretty big fire," said Chief Haney, "and my men worked like Trojans, but it was impossible to save them. It is the largest blaze I have had since I took charge of the Jacksonville department. Last month we had nineteen fires."

Chief Haney has a department under him which is second to none taking into consideration the size. He has twenty-five men, two hose wagons, two reels, a Hayes

His discipline is as perfect as a long training under Chief Joyner could effect it, and he is to Jacksonville what Chief Joyner is to Atlanta. And the average youth in Jacksonville is just as enthusiastic over the chief and his red wagon.

Chief Haney will remain in Atlanta a week, unless he can be prevailed upon to stay longer, and will stop with his brother, Foreman Henry Haney.

Sound Doctrine.

From The Richmond Times.

The Hon. J. L. M. Curry, in writing to The Times says: The Times says:

"Like yourself, I am very strongly of the opinion that the depression under which agriculture and other interests labor at the present moment is very largely due to the bad legislation of our government. The old democratic doctrine of divorce of government from banks is the true one. I recall as I write what Mr. Calhoun, in his terse and luminous language, inscribed upon his political banner at the close of that extraordinary speech in condemnation of the proposed tariff in 1842: 'Free trade, low duties, no debt, separation of government from banks, econseparation of government from banks, economy, retrenchment and strict adherence to the constitution. With such a platform, actualized into laws and properly enforced, we should be free from any of the evils of which our people complain."

The stores below are always in demand and can be rented any time at satisfactory prices on long leases. This building was erected with special care, and is one of the very best among the late structures put up in the city.

The president and board of directors have purchased a beautiful corner lot on Marletta street, and will occupy it from this time on. Hence the necessity of disposing of this grand property. This transaction should elicit the interest of every man and woman in Atlanta. The our library. We must stand by it now as we have always done in the past. It must be sold to meet the demands against the association.

Was well taken by a Judge in a Georgia city recently. A highly respectable and usually prompt citizen, who had been summoned to serve upon the jury, depended upon a cheap watch, and arrived twenty minutes late. The Judge promptly fined him $50. indicating that in this age of fine watches at reasonable prices, his excuse was not sufficient to relieve him of the fine.

This expense would have been avoided if the citizen had been wearing a Stevens Watch. They lead all others for durability and accuracy, and prices are very low. Call on J. P. Stevens & Bro., Jewelers, 47 Whitehall Street, or write to them for a catalogue

But We Have Had Several Governors in

WHO WERE SET ON TRIGGERS, TOO,

And They Did Not Hesitate to Talk Back and Armed Men.

Governor Pennoyer's telegram to Secretary of State Gresham was read with much in-terest at the statehouse yesterday. The comments on it were interesting, too. Governor Pennoyer is a populist and has been rather fresh, the capitol officials say, ever since he went in office. He would not go out to meet President Harrison when he was on his trip, and he would not let the state's guns be fired in celebration of President Cleveland's election last fall.

"Pennoyer is all right in his intentions of maintaining the sovereignty of his state, but he has a gruff way of expressing his policy," said one official. "He might be more polite and courteous in his tone. It is not cusomary for one executive to be curt to a coordinate. Here in Georgia our governors have always resented interference by the national government in state affairs. There was the case of Governor Rabun, who had a tart correspondence with General Jack-son seventy-five years ago. The governor told the general to attend to his own busi-ness in very plain words, but the general was not president then. He was in command of the troops in the field. Governor Rabun had sent Captain Obed Wright with a com-mand against some hostile Indian towns. Wright came across a village and he burned it and several of the Indians were killed. They were hostile, and it was charged that they had committed several murders. Captain Wright had disobeyed orders and General Jackson had him put in irons. Governor Rabun demanded his release. Wright was afterward arrested by order of the governor, but finally escaped. In the correspondence which grew out of the incident General Jackson was tart and Governor Rabun replied saltily to him.

"Governor Troup and Governor Gilmer each had some spirited correspondence in their days with the presidents, and the correspondence which passed between Governor Joe Brown and President Jefferson Davis over the conscript iaw. Georga's governors stood up every time against interference by the national governments and showed their They were hostile, and it was charged that select the commanding officers for their troops."

Governor Troup's clash with the national government came about through the attempt of the state to make a survey of lands in south Georgia occupied by the Indians. General Gaines was in the vicinity and had military jurisdiction. He interfered with the preliminary steps to the survey and some hot correspondence passed between himself and the governor. Finally he wrote some letters to the papers and the governor took exception to them. He considered them insulting. Complaining to the president, Governor Troup said that in maintaining correspondence with the government of the United States he had not permitted any false considerations of dignity, or any false estimates of forms and ceremonies, which usually govern diplomatic intercourse between states, to interpose the least difficulty. "So far from it," he said, "I have cheerfully descended to the level of everything which it pleased you at any time to employ as your representative or organ—from the clerks of government bureaus up to your major generals by brevet, and have acted and treated with them as equals.

"In the deportment of some of these I have experienced annoyance, self-sufficiency, a haughty and contemptuous carriage, and a most insulting interference with our have experienced annoyance, self-sufficiency, a haughty and contemptuous carriage, and a most insulting interference with our local politics; and these characteristics were not exhibited to one but to all of the constituted authorities of the state. Now, sir, suffer me in conclusion to ask if these things have been done in virtue of your own instructions express or implied, or oby authority of any warrant from you whatsoever; and, if ont so done, whether you will sanction or adopt them as your own, and thus hold yourself responsible to the government of Georgia?"

General Gaines continued to publish letters in the newspapers which were insulting and the governor wrote to the president. In the letter Governor Troup said: "It is expected that your indignant reprobation of his conduct will be marked by the most exemplary punishment which the law will enable you to inflict. I demand, therefore, as chief magistrate of Georgia, his immediate recall and his arrest, trial and punishment under the rules and articles of war."

The president declined to have General Gaines arrested. Governor Gilmer's Spat.

Gaines arrested.

Governor Gilmer's Spat.

Governor Gilmer had a great deal of trouble over the refusal of people to leave the Cherokee territory. Two missionaries were arrested and convicted and the governor was censured severely outside the state. But they had been inciting the Cherokees and the settlers to disregard the laws of the state.

This was followed by the trial and conviction of one Tassels for murder in the Cherokee strip.

Tassels was tried in the Hall county court. It was claimed that the court had no jurisdiction. The chief justice of the supreme court of the United States was appealed to and he sent writs to Governor Gilmer and the sheriff of Hall county. The governor sent a message to the general assembly and that body adopted resolutions expressing regret at the interference by the chief justice in the administration of the criminal law of the state and pronounced the interference a flagrant violation of Georgia's rights.

The resolutions proceeded to enjoin the governor and every other officer of the state to disregard any and every mandate and process that might be served purporting to come from the chief justice of the supreme court, for the purpose of arresting the execution of any of the criminal laws of the state. Governor Gilmer was authorized, too, with all the force and means placed at his command by the state constitution to resist any invasion upon the administration of the criminal laws of the state.

Soak your clothes in Pearline and water (over night is best); boil them in Pearline and water twenty minutes; rinse them-and they will be clean.

When you think what you save by doing away with the rubbing, the saving of health, the saving of clothes, the saving of hard work, time and money-then isn't it time to think about washing with Pearline? Beware of imitations, 355 JAMES PYLE, N. Y

MERCHANT TAILORING

Making to Measure.

Many men want their clothing made to measure. No matter how well the ready-made clothing is finished and how near to perfect fitting, they'd rather spend a few dollars extra to have their own ideas followed, and to give directions to the maker as to just what they want. We have a department of this kind. It's progressive and in keeping with the general push of our business. There's another important feature-it's not over-high price. A trial solicited.
